Ubevidst Intelligens:

Unconscious Intelligence in Cybernetic Psychology Torben Hansen, Henrik Hass, 2023-09-14 This important book examines how the growing field of cybernetic psychology the study of the creative complexity of the mind can be applied to a range of different realms tapping into the unconscious potential within us all Cybernetic psychology integrates theories from various schools of thought bringing them together in one unified theory First developed and described by Danish author and psychotherapist Ole Vedfelt It can be used in therapeutic practice in relation to learning and pedagogics and as a tool for better leadership The 15 chapters within this volume apply the theory to these as well as other areas including ecology creativity mindfulness and scientific enquiry itself Insightful and wide ranging the book will appeal to psychotherapists and those working within mental health as well as students and researchers across Education Psychology and beyond

How We Learn Knud Illeris, 2016-10-21 Having published in 11 languages and sold in more than 100 000 copies this fully revised edition of How We Learn examines what learning actually is and why and how learning and non learning takes place Focusing exclusively on learning itself it provides a comprehensive yet accessible introduction to traditional learning theory and the newest international contributions while at the same time presenting an innovative and holistic understanding of learning Comprising insightful and topical discussions covering all learning types learning situations and environments this edition includes key updates to sections on School based learning Reflexivity and biographicity E learning The basic dimensions and types of learning What happens when intended learning does not take place The connections between learning and personal development Learning in the competition state How We Learn spans from a basic grounding of the fundamental structure and dimensions of learning and different learning types to a detailed exploration of the differing situations and environments in which learning takes place These include learning in different life stages learning in the late modern competition society and the crucial topic of learning barriers Transformative learning identity the concept of competencies workplace learning non learning and the interaction between learning and the educational approaches of the competition state are also examined Forming the broadest basic reader on the topic of human learning this revised edition is integral reading for all those who deal with learning and teaching in practice Particularly interested will be MA and doctoral students of education as well as university and school based teachers

Mediation Vibeke Vindeløv, 2007 What distinguishes this textbook from most other books on mediation is the way it links together the now classical elements of the mediation process with the explicit values and attitudes of the mediator regardless of whether these concern technical matters philosophical attitudes or values No matter what type of conflict is the subject of mediation or who the parties are these must guide and motivate the mediator The book guides prospective mediators through the mediation process and because of its educational aim the book is structured as if the process is schematic with each phase easily identifiable even though in practice this is far from always being the case
