modernisation theories from the Third World Theories of Development Ronald H. Chilcote, Dale L. Johnson, 1983-02 Dependency theory is currently being challenged by a fresh application of classic Marxist principles combined with thinking from Marxist structuralism. The result is a body of work that emphasizes the importance of the mode of production rather than markets or exchange relations. Essays from opposing viewpoints have been collected in this volume to study the Third World and discuss the progressive or regressive role of capitalism in developing countries whether production in them is capitalist or pre-capitalist and re-emphasize the importance of class relations in development. As a review of the complex theoretical issues involved and the intellectual history behind them, the book has much to offer both specialists and students.

This monograph, the first English book available on modernization science, interprets its concepts, methodologies, general theories, first and second modernization, six level specific, six field specific, and three sector specific modernizations, modernization policy and evaluation, and the principles and methods of national development since the 18th century. It provides clear, systematic, up-to-date information on this new discipline with more than 173 figures and 265 tables and covers 131 countries and 97% of the global population.
