Introduction to the United States Air Force, 2001 To lead the US Air Force into the future it is necessary to understand the past and present nature of the force With this in mind Air Force leaders have always sought to arm members of the force with a basic knowledge and understanding of Air Force culture and history This volume is a contribution to that ongoing educational process but as the title states this is only an introduction The information provided here merely scratches the surface of the fascinating stories of the people equipment and operations of the Air Force Topics that are covered here in only a few short paragraphs have been and will continue to be the subject of entire books We hope this volume will be a starting point and a reference work to facilitate your continuing study of aerospace power The reader should keep in mind that all the people operations and aerospace craft included in this book have been important to the US Air Force but they are not the only ones that have been important The US Air Force has gained much from other nations other US military services and civilian organizations and these outside influences on the US Air Force are not included in this volume This Introduction to the United States Air Force is organized into two parts and five appendices The first part is organized chronologically and groups significant operations and personalities together in several critical periods in the development of the US Air Force The second part covers aerospace craft and is organized by type fighters bombers missiles etc in order to show the development of each type over time Following Part II are appendices listing the senior leaders of the early air forces before the creation of the US Air Force in 1947 the Air Force Chiefs of Staff the Chief Master Sergeants of the Air Force Fighter Aces and Medal of Honor Winners

Force-development Initiative S. Craig Moore, Marygail K. Brauner, 2007 The Air Force's force development initiative evolved from research that the RAND Corporation began in the late 1990s aiming to improve the development of Air Force senior leaders This monograph summarizes force development's history recommends ways to advance the initiative and suggests areas that need senior leaders attention and decision making In it they respond to discussions during 2005 with Maj Gen Tony Przbyslawski Commander of the Air Force Personnel Center In current force development parlance they concentrate on the development of occupational competencies that can be managed substantially and more definitively using officer assignments in contrast to institutional competencies e.g. negotiating, visioning, fostering diversity, listening actively and demonstrating ethical leadership that are less job specific and that the Air Force is working to inculcate largely through education and training This document should be of value across the Air Force manpower and personnel community and perhaps even more to career field managers and development teams in other functional areas It aims to help members of the Force Management and Development Council FMDC formerly the Force Development Council adopt a common vision for the future of occupational force development and to promote consistent advancements within and across their functional areas

Reflections and Remembrances U. S. Military, Department of Defense, U. S. Air Force (USAF), U. S. Government, 2017-04-15 This Air Force publication tells the stories of Army Air Force veterans in World War II For its 1995 observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the end of World War II the Air Force History and Museums Program sponsored a series of commemorative events One a National Day of Recognition for Veterans of the United States Army Air Forces USAAF held on August 7th in the Washington D C area was celebrated at three locations First at the Pentagon's center court Secretary of the Air Force Sheila E. Widnall and Chief of Staff of the Air Force General Ronald R. Fogleman praised the veterans' numberless contributions to Allied victory in the war The Air Force Historian Richard P. Hallion read a congressional resolution marking the day and then Lieutenant Colonel Donald S. Lopez USAF retired spoke on behalf of all World War II airmen A flyover by vintage USAAF aircraft capped the festivities During the afternoon in a symposium at the National Archives and Records Administration eleven USAAF veterans in separate sessions covering the conflicts in Europe and Asia reflected on their own wartime experiences of half a century ago They spoke with clarity and authority and in remarkable detail on such topics as military preparedness, leadership, training, racial segregation, the treatment of American prisoners of war, military technology, the Allied invasion of Japan and the use of atomic weapons Historians Richard G. Davis and William T. Blood presented overviews at the respective sessions That evening the Daughters of the American Revolution gave a reception in honor of the symposium participants and opened Constitution Hall for an outstanding musical tribute which was performed before a packed house by the United States Air Force Band Dr Hallion joined by General Bryce Poe II president of the Air Force Historical Foundation hosted the symposium Reminiscences and remarks are faithfully preserved herein
