Typographies of Performance in Early Modern England Claire M. L. Bourne,2020-06-05 Typographies of Performance in Early Modern England is the first book length study of early modern English playbook typography It tells a new history of drama from the period by considering the page designs of plays by Shakespeare and others printed between the end of the fifteenth century and the beginning of the eighteenth century It argues that typography broadly conceived was used creatively by printers publishers playwrights and other agents of the book trade to make the effects of theatricality from the most basic textually articulating a change in speaker to the more complex registering the kinesis of bodies on stage intelligible on the page The coalescence of these experiments into a uniquely dramatic typography that was constantly responsive to performance effects made it possible for plays to be marketed collected and read in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries as a print genre distinct from all other genres of imaginative writing It has been said If a play is a book it is not a play Typographies of Performance in Early Modern England shows that play and book were in fact mutually constitutive it was the very bookishness of plays printed in early modern England that allowed them to be recognized by their earliest readers as plays in the first place

Transforming Type Barbara Brownie,2014-12-18 Transforming Type examines kinetic or moving type in a range of fields including film credits television idents interactive poetry and motion graphics As the screen increasingly imitates the properties of real life environments typographic sequences are able to present letters that are active and reactive These environments invite new discussions about the difference between motion and change global and local transformation and the relationship between word and image In this illuminating study Barbara Brownie explores the ways in which letterforms transform on screen and the consequences of such transformations Drawing on examples including Kyle Cooper s title sequence design kinetic poetry and MPC s idents for the UK s Channel 4 she differentiates motion from other kinds of kineticism with particular emphasis on the transformation of letterforms into other forms and objects through construction parallax and metamorphosis She proposes that each of these kinetic behaviours requires us to revisit existing assumptions about the nature of alphabetic forms and the spaces in which they are found
