Tropical Forests and Their Crops Nigel J. H. Smith, J. T. Williams, Donald L. Plucknett, Jennifer P. Talbot, 2018-05-31 The tropics are the source of many of our familiar fruits vegetables oils and spice as well as such commodities as rubber and wood Moreover other tropical fruits and vegetables are being introduced into our markets to offer variety to our diet Now as tropical forests are increasingly threatened we face a double fold crisis not only the loss of the plants but also rich pools of potentially useful genes Wild populations of crop plants harbor genes that can improve the productivity and disease resistance of cultivated crops many of which are vital to developing economies and to global commerce Eight chapters of this book are devoted to a variety of tropical crops beverages fruit starch oil resins fuelwood fodder spices timber and nuts the history of their domestication their uses today and the known extent of their gene pools both domesticated and wild Drawing on broad research the authors also consider conservation strategies such as parks and reserves corporate holdings gene banks and tissue culture collections and debt for nature swaps They stress the need for a sensitive balance between conservation and the economic well being of local populations If economic growth is part of the conservation effort local populations and governments will be more strongly motivated to save their natural resources Distinctly practical and soundly informative this book provides insight into the overwhelming abundance of tropical forests an unsettling sense of what we may lose if they are destroyed and a deep appreciation for the delicate relationships between tropical forest plants and people around the world

Tropical Forests: Management and Ecology Ariel E. Lugo, Carol Lowe, 2012-12-06 Forestry professors used to remind students that whereas physicians bury their mistakes foresters die before theirs are noticed But good institutions live longer than the scientists who contribute to building them and the half century of work of the USDA Forest Service s Institute of Tropical Forestry ITF is in plain view an unprecedented corpus of accomplishments that would instill pride in any organization There is scarcely anyone interested in current issues of tropical forestry who would not benefit from a refresher course in ITF s findings its early collaboration with farmers to establish plantations its successes in what we now call social forestry its continuous improvement of nursery practices its screening trials of native species its development of wood processing technologies appropriate for developing countries its thorough analysis of tropical forest function and its holistic approach toward conservation of endangered species Fortunately ITF has a long history of information exchange through teaching like many others I got my own start in tropical forest ecology from just such a course in Puerto Rico And long before politicians recognized the global importance of tropical forestry the ITF staff served actively as ambassadors of the discipline visiting tropical countries everywhere to learn and when invited to do so to help solve local problems It is a general principle of biogeography that species turnover rates on islands are higher than those on continents Inevitably the same is true of scientists assigned to work on islands

Tropical Forests Thomas K. Rudel, 2005 Known as the Garbo of Chinese letters for her elegance and the aura of mystery that surrounded her Eileen Chang is regarded as one of the greatest and most influential modern Chinese novelists and cultural critics of the twentieth century In Written on Water first published in 1945 and now available for the first time in English Chang offers essays on art literature war and urban life as well as autobiographical reflections Chang takes in the sights and sounds of wartime Shanghai and Hong Kong with the tremors of national upheaval and the drone of warplanes in the background and inventively fuses explorations of urban life literary trends domestic habits and historic events These evocative and moving firsthand accounts examine the subtle and not so subtle effects of the Japanese bombing and occupation of Shanghai and Hong Kong Eileen Chang writes of friends colleagues and teachers turned soldiers or wartime volunteers and her own experiences as a part time nurse Her nuanced depictions range from observations of how a woman's elegant dress affects morale to descriptions of hospital life With a distinctive style that is at once meditative vibrant and humorous Chang engages the reader through sly ironic humor an occasionally chatty tone and an intense fascination with the subtleties of modern urban life The collection vividly captures the sights and sounds of Shanghai a city defined by its mix of tradition and modernity Chang explores the city's food fashions shops cultural life and social mores she reveals and upends prevalent attitudes toward women and in the process presents a portrait of a liberated cosmopolitan woman enjoying the opportunities freedoms and pleasures offered by urban life In addition to her descriptions of daily life Chang also reflects on a variety of artistic and literary issues including contemporary films the aims of the writer the popularity of the Peking Opera dance and painting

Tropical Forests, International Jungle M. Smouts, 2003-05-29

Marie Claude Smouts looks at the issue of rain forest depletion and global environmental policies Beginning with how the issue entered the world stage in the 1980s despite alarms over the issue in the 1950s Tropical Forests International Jungle explores the complexities of what are tropical forests what role they play not only in environmentalism but in trade health care and almost every facet of natural and social life for those living there and beyond Although for most in the developed world tropical forests have gained a status of part of our world heritage these forests are not really part of the global commons or a global public good Developing nations maintain control over the forests within their borders and often use the forests as they see fit The international system for mediating the issue is a fractured group of non governmental organizations and transnational networks often with competing views of how to manage tropical forests Despite this seemingly grim picture Smouts is optimistic A changing world view toward forest depletion is influencing countries both North and South Although forests will be used commercially it is a dynamic process that should maintain them far into the future

American Forests, 1925      Tropical Forest Conservation Douglas DeWitt Southgate, 1998 Attempts to halt the destruction of rain forests and other natural habitats in the tropics have met with little success In particular national parks like those found in wealthy nations have proven difficult to establish in Africa Asia and South and Central America More often than not people inhabiting areas designated for protection resist being told by outsiders that they must change how and where they live Alternative approaches frequently embodied in integrated conservation and development projects ICDPs are now being pursued The goal is to address local communities desires for improved standards of living while simultaneously meeting conservation objectives Nature based tourism and sustainable harvesting of forest products are the centerpieces of ICDPs and related initiatives This book assesses the viability of conservation strategies predicated on the adoption of environmentally sound enterprises in and around threatened habitats Drawing on research in Brazil Costa Rica Ecuador and Peru and on his extensive experience working in South and Central America and the Caribbean the author demonstrates that it is rare for forest dwellers to derive much benefit from ecotourism the extraction of timber and other commodities or the collection of samples used in pharmaceutical research Often these activities are simply unprofitable Even when they are profitable the benefits tend not to accrue locally but instead are captured by outside firms and individuals who can provide important services like safe and reliable transportation The author contends that human capital formation and related productivity enhancing investment is the only sure path to economic progress and habitat conservation

The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and gripping novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
