Spice Crops:

Spice Crops E. A. Weiss, 2002 Many plants have been used for centuries as sources of spices for culinary use Recently there has been an upsurge of interest in diversifying the range of such spices and in their agronomy as alternative crops in both temperate and tropical countries This book provides a scientific review and guide to the botany and agronomy of the major families of plants used for the production of spices Contents include world production and trade and chapters on Cruciferae Lauraceae Leguminosae Piperaceae Solanaceae Umbelliferae Zingiberaceae and Minor crops Cultivation of Spice Crops Azhar Ali Farooqi, B. S. Sreeramu, K. N. Srinivasappa, 2005 Spices constitute an important group of agricultural commodities which since antiquity have been used for flavouring foods Some species are used in the pharmaceutical perfumery cosmetics and related industries and others possess colourant preservative antioxidant antiseptic and antibiotic properties India is one of the leading spice producing and exporting countries in the world In addition large quantities of spices are consumed within the country for seasoning of food and for several other purposes No other country in the world has such a diverse variety of spice crops as India This book reflects the intensive research carried out on this group of 42 spice crops since 1971 The improvement in agro techniques and the release of many high yielding varieties It provides exhaustive information on all aspects of cultivation harvesting and processing of each crop and will be an invaluable aid to students teachers and growers of spice crops both individual and corporate

Plantation and Spices Crops Chadwick Hillam, 2017-10 A plantation is a large scale farm that specializes in cash crops and cultivated on an extensive scale in a large contiguous area owned and managed by an individual or a company The crops include tea coffee rubber cocoa coconut arecanut oil palm palmyrah cashew cinchona etc These plantation crops are high value commercial crops of greater economic importance and play a vital role in a nation economy Probably the single most important factor a plantation has on the local environment is the site where the plantation is established If natural forest is cleared for a planted forest then a reduction in biodiversity and loss of habitat will likely result In some cases their establishment may involve draining wetlands to replace mixed hardwoods that formerly predominated with pine species If a plantation is established on abandoned agricultural land or highly degraded land it can result in an increase in both habitat and biodiversity A planted forest can be profitably established on lands that will not support agriculture or suffer from lack of natural regeneration However the prospects of spice crop production are bright because of its high market demand The most common type of spice crops grown are onion garlic ginger black pepper hot pepper celery shallots leek bay leaf and tanglad Among these crops however only onion garlic ginger black pepper and hot pepper are grown commercially because of their high market demand and usefulness Spices are primarily used as food seasoning In addition to their culinary uses spices are also utilized as flavoring agent in beverages active ingredient in syrubic medicines coloring agent of textiles and an important constituent in cosmetic and perfume products This Book Plantation and Spices Crops presents an overview of the importance of plantation crops and spice plants as well as the current status of the cultivation of these crops. It covers plant production aspects such as climate and water requirements, planting, fertilizers, irrigation, weeding and hoeing, and harvesting, processing, and pest and disease management. This book is intended for advanced graduate students and practitioners of agriculture and horticulture and those who are involved in the production and promotion of plantation crops, spice plants, and essential oil and medicinal plants.

Handbook of Spices in India: 75 Years of Research and Development P N Ravindran, K Sivaraman, S Devasahayam, K Nirmal Babu, 2024-06-24. This compendium presents comprehensive information on more than 25 important spice crops commercially grown in India and traded globally, apart from over 40 spices that have the potential to be popularized. In 70 chapters, the book covers the achievements in research and development made in India for the past 75 years in various organizations, including research institutes, agricultural universities, and private sector laboratories. Spices are natural products of plant origin used primarily for flavouring and seasoning or for adding pungency and flavour to foods and beverages. The flavour and fragrance of Indian spices had a magic spell on human culture since very ancient days. The importance of spices in Indian life and its contribution to the economy are substantial. India, as the world's leading producer of spices, is also a significant stakeholder in spices export trade globally. Indian spices being sources of many high value compounds are also gaining much importance for other diversified uses, especially for their pharmaceutical and nutraceutical properties. A wide variety of 52 spices are grown in India, including black pepper, chillies, cardamom, ginger, turmeric, cinnamon, nutmeg, garlic, onion, cumin, coriander, saffron, and vanilla. This book provides a comprehensive holistic review on the subject, written by the best experts in the field in India, representing diverse agencies. This book is a single point reference book for all those involved in the research, study, teaching, and use of spices in India and abroad.

Handbook on Spices and Condiments (Cultivation, Processing and Extraction) H. Panda, 2010-10-01. The term Spice and Condiments applies to natural plant or vegetable products or mixtures in whole or ground form which are used for imparting flavour, aroma, and piquancy to the food items. Spices and condiments are a major commercial crop in India and earn a major part of foreign exchange annually. They have been the backbone of agricultural industry. The importance of spices and condiment in dietary, medicinal, and other uses and their commercial importance are immense. India is known the world over as the home of spices. Thus, spices are an important group of agricultural goods which are virtually indispensable in the culinary art. Spice processing includes different steps: spice cleaning, spice reconditioning, and spice grinding. Some spices were also used for preserving food like meat for a year or more without refrigeration. In the 16th century, cloves, for instance, were among the spices used to preserve food without refrigeration. Cloves contain a chemical called eugenol that inhibits the growth of bacteria. It is a natural antibiotic. It is still used to preserve food like Virginia Ham. Likewise, later, mustard and ground mustard were also found to have preservative qualities. India alone contributes 25-30% of the total world trade in spices. It may be interesting to note that nine spices, namely, pepper, ginger, clove, cinnamon, cassia, mace, nutmeg, pimento, allspice, and cardamom, alone contributed as much as 90% of the total world trade Pepper is the most important spice in the world and so also of India This book basically deals with brief history of spices uses of spices world trade in spices area production of spices in India area and production of spices in India major and minor spices of India spice processing quality issues with spices bird chillies and Tabasco chillies basil or sweet basil seasoning blend duplication and tricks sauces and gravies snack seasonings quality issues with spices etc This book is a single compendium which deals with all aspects and facts of spices and condiments which may meet the requirements of all those handling them at various stages from harvesting to their end use This book contains post harvest management the potentials of genetic engineering high production technology in spices with plantation and processing of various spices and condiments such as vanilla turmeric tamarind saffron black pepper onion mint ginger garlic curry leaf coriander etc

Complete Book on Spices & Condiments (with Cultivation, Processing & Uses) 2nd Revised Edition NIIR Board of Consultants & Engineers, 2006-04-01

The term spices and condiments applies to such natural plant or vegetable products and mixtures thereof used in whole or ground form mainly for imparting flavor, aroma and piquancy to foods and also for seasoning of foods, beverages like soups. The great mystery and beauty of spices is their use, blending and ability to change and enhance the character of food. Spices and condiments have a special significance in various ways in human life because of its specific flavours, taste and aroma. Spices and condiments play an important role in the national economies of several spice producing, importing and exporting countries. India is one of the major spice producing and exporting countries. Most of the spices and herbs have active principles in them and development of these through pharmacological and preclinical and clinical screening would mean expansion of considerable opportunities for successful commercialization of the product. Spices can be used to create these health promoting products. The active components in the spices: phthalides, polyacetylenes, phenolic acids, flavanoids, coumarines, triterpenoids, saponins and monoterpenes are powerful tools for promoting physical and emotional wellness. India has been playing a major role in producing and exporting various perennial spices like cardamoms, pepper, vanilla, clove, nutmeg and cinnamon over a wide range of suitable climatic situations. To produce good quality spice products, attention is required not only during cultivation but also at the time of harvesting, processing and storing. Not as large as in the days when next to gold, spices were considered most worth the risk of life and money. The trade is still extensive and the oriental demand is as large as ever. Some of the fundamentals of the book are: definition of spices and condiments, nomenclature or classification of spices and condiments, Indian central spices and cashew nut committee origin, properties and uses of spices, forms, functions and applications of spices, trends in the world of spices, yield and nutrient uptake by some spice crops grown in sodic soil, tissue culture and in vitro conservation of spices, in vitro responses of piper species on activated charcoal supplemented media, soil agro climatic planning for sustainable spices production, potentials of biotechnology in the improvement of spice crops, medicinal applications of spices and herbs, medicinal properties and uses of seed spices, effect of soil solarization on chillies, spice oil and oleoresin from fresh dry spices etc. The present book contains cultivation, processing and uses of various spices and condiments which are well known for their multiple uses in every house all over world. The book is an invaluable resource for new entrepreneurs, agriculturists, agriculture universities and technocrats.
