as well as Jesus's activity. Ritual sacrifice was one of the greatest concerns and most widely shared activities among Jews prior to the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem. There is therefore a pressing need for systematic understanding of sacrifice both as an element of Judaic religion and a context for Jesus's activity. The Temple of Jesus provides a theoretical model of sacrifice and develops that model to analyze classic texts from the Hebrew Scriptures and the Jewish War of Josephus and it argues that Jesus can only be appreciated as driven by a program to enact his own conception of Israel's purity in sacrifice in order to occasion the disclosure of God's kingdom. Chilton contends that sacrifice is construed as a fundamentally social pre-civilized activity involving pragmata as defined as pure an emotional affect for participants and an ideology according to which sacrifice occasions a change of life in the community thus rejecting current anthropological studies that attempt to explain sacrifice genetically. He shows that texts from Ezekiel, Leviticus and Deuteronomy share a conviction that the covenant with Israel ensures the validity of sacrifice even as they define purity in various ways and emphasize differing affects of sacrifice. Finally Chilton provides a new approach to Jesus comparing and contrasting his occupation of the Temple with the cultic activities of prominent Pharisees of his period.
