Integration and

Differentiation in the European Union Dirk Leuffen, Berthold Rittberger, Frank Schimmelfennig, 2022-01-01 Far from displaying a uniform pattern European integration varies significantly across policy areas and individual countries Why do some member states choose to opt out of specific EU policies Why are some policies deeply integrated whereas others remain intergovernmental In this updated second edition the authors introduce the most important theoretical approaches to European integration and apply these to the trajectories of key EU policy areas Arguing that no single theory offers a completely convincing explanation of integration and differentiation in the EU this thought provoking book provides a new synthesis of integration theory and an original way of thinking about what the EU is and how it works European Integration Theory Antje Wiener, Tanja A. Theories of the Making of European Union Foreign Policy Jan-Henrik Petermann, 2011-11-21 Essay from the year 2005 in the subject Politics Topic European Union London School of Economics Department of International Relations language English abstract In spite of the growing empirical significance of the European Union EU as a soft power scholars of International Relations IR have found it difficult to identify a single theoretical framework to explain the making of European Foreign Policy EFP The reasons for this apparent failure of rigorous theory building may be twofold On the one hand there is still much debate about what the EU the ontological object of inquiry actually is On the other hand many authors have taken a self critical attitude towards their own discipline emphasising that there is still a multiplicity of convictions as to how we can best theorise EFP Though detailed analyses of the specific pattern of the EU s external relations have indeed been marginalised for a long time it seems plausible to trace this lack of theoretical coherence back to the nature of EFP itself It is often argued that the EU is a political system sui generis a complex structure that is neither a state nor a non state actor and neither a conventional international organization nor an international regime In a similar vein some observers assert that the EU might most suitably be characterised as a hybrid political sphere that does not easily lend itself to classical Foreign Policy Analysis FPA In fact the major IR perspectives on EU foreign policy making neorealist neoliberal and constructivist appear to be largely incompatible in this respect Within each framework certain claims are made which effectively rule out or downgrade the validity and reliability of key premises in rival approaches Therefore the central question posed in this essay is Which theory best explains the making of EU foreign policy And if there is no single theoretical paradigm might there be any potential for an analytical synthesis in order to understand the particular features of EFP more appropriately To answer these questions I will first describe the main views on the development of EFP represented by the above mentioned approaches within the broader context of theorising European integration Secondly I will outline in how far the EU s peculiar nature as a system of multi level decision making can be regarded as a core empirical challenge to the concepts of conventional FPA I will conclude that different theoretical schemes ought to be applied to different issue areas of foreign policy making in a more selective manner if the complex processes of EFP are to be fully understood
