municipalities and their constitutional status While our constitution is often considered a living document Canada has one of the most complicated amending formulas in the world making change very difficult Cities are thus constitutionally vulnerable to unilateral provincial action and reliant on other levels of government for funding Could municipal power be reimagined without disrupting the existing constitutional structure or could the Constitution be reformed to designate cities a distinct tier of government Among other novel proposals this groundbreaking volume explores the idea of recognizing municipalities in provincial constitutions The first volume of a complementary pair authored by renowned Canadian legal and urban studies scholars Cities and the Constitution suggests contemporary solutions to one of our most pressing policy dilemmas
