Human Language Technologies for Under-Resourced African Languages Moses Effiong Ekpenyong, 2018-01-25 This book provides an overview of a recent and flexible approach to speech synthesis design to develop the first statistical parametric speech synthesizer for Ibibio a West African tonal language The design precludes the inflexibility encountered when modeling tonal features of the language and can be used for other tonal African languages Mobile use and technological innovations in developing African nations have exploded With mobile technology many of the barriers caused by infrastructure issues have vanished In order to address issues that are unique to African tonal languages the book uses Ibibio as a model The text reviews the language's speech characteristics required for building the front end components of the design and propose a finite state transducer FST useful for modelling

the language's tonotactics The statistical parametric approach discussed in the text implements the Hidden Markov Model HMM technique with the goal of creating a generic structure that learns the model from the text itself and uses the data driven approach to input specification The Cambridge Handbook of Cognitive Linguistics Barbara Dancygier, 2017-06-01 The best survey of cognitive linguistics available this Handbook provides a thorough explanation of its rich methodology key results and interdisciplinary context With in depth coverage of the research questions basic concepts and various theoretical approaches the Handbook addresses newly emerging subfields and shows their contribution to the discipline The Handbook introduces fields of study that have become central to cognitive linguistics such as conceptual mappings and construction grammar It explains all the main areas of linguistic analysis traditionally expected in a full linguistics framework and includes fields of study such as language acquisition sociolinguistics diachronic studies and corpus linguistics Setting linguistic facts within the context of many other disciplines the Handbook will be welcomed by researchers and students in a broad range of disciplines including linguistics cognitive science neuroscience gesture studies computational linguistics and multimodal studies Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1998-06 The German Language Tobias Johann Casjen Diekhoff, 1914

Diphthongs in Frisian Kathrin S. Bussmann, 2004 Frisian dialects have been particularly noted for the wealth and variety of their diphthongs Using a set of specific phonological criteria this study evaluates the diphthongs of Classical Old Frisian through to those of the modern Frisian dialects to determine which diphthongs actually hold phonemic status For each posited inventory of phonemic diphthongs those features which play a distinctive role are identified A comparison with other West Germanic diphthong inventories leads to a number of interesting findings Unlike other West Germanic languages Frisian shows a general historical trend toward diphthong conservation even in the case of highly marked diphthongs Furthermore Frisian diphthong accentuation allows for rising as well as falling diphthongs to occur within the same dialect challenging previous assumptions that accentuation is always assigned through a binary parameter setting based on vocoid position Finally nuclear quantity is shown to play a phonemically distinctive role between certain diphthongs A new taxonomy of vowel system types is consequently proposed whereby quantitative oppositions between diphthongs can be represented
