Topics in the Theory of Computation

M. Karpinski, J. van Leeuwen, 1985-01-01

This volume contains nine selected papers presented at the Borgholm conference. They were chosen on the basis of their immediate relevance to the most fundamental aspects of the theory of computation and the newest developments in this area. These papers, which have been extended and refereed, fall into eight categories: 1 Constructive Mathematics in Models of Computation and Programming; 2 Abstract Calculi and Denotational Semantics; 3 Theory of Machines, Computations and Languages; 4 Nondeterminism, Concurrency and Distributed Computing; 5 Abstract Algebras, Logics and Combinatorics in Computation Theory; 6 General Computability and Decidability; 7 Computational and Arithmetic Complexity; 8 Analysis of Algorithms and Feasible Computing.

Gödel's Disjunction

Leon Horsten, Philip Welch, 2016-09-09

The logician Kurt Gödel in 1951 established a disjunctive thesis about the scope and limits of mathematical knowledge: either the mathematical mind is not equivalent to a Turing machine (i.e. a computer) or there are absolutely undecidable mathematical problems. In the second half of the twentieth century, attempts have been made to arrive at a stronger conclusion. In particular, arguments have been produced by the philosopher J. R. Lucas and by the physicist and mathematician Roger Penrose that intend to show that the mathematical mind is more powerful than any computer. These arguments and counterarguments to them have not convinced the logical and philosophical community. The reason for this is an insufficiency of rigour in the debate. The contributions in this volume move the debate forward by formulating rigorous frameworks and formally spelling out and evaluating arguments that bear on Gödel's disjunction in these frameworks. The contributions in this volume have been written by world-leading experts in the field.

Fachbereich Informatik, Universität des Saarlandes, Saarbrücken, Germany. In collaboration with Ryan D. Stansifer, Department of Computer Science, Cornell University, USA. This revised edition provides a precise mathematical background to several program verification techniques. It concentrates on those verification methods that have now become classic, such as the inductive assertions method of Floyd, the axiomatic method of Hoare, and Scott's fixpoint induction. The aim of the book is to present these different verification methods in a simple setting and to explain their mathematical background in particular.

the problems of correctness and completeness of the different methods are discussed in some detail and many helpful examples are included Contents Authors Preface Part A Preliminaries Mathematical Preliminaries Predicate Logic Part B Semantics of Programming Languages Three Simple Programming Languages Fixpoints in Complete Partial Orders Denotational Semantics Part C Program Verification Methods Correctness of Programs The Classical Methods of Floyd The Axiomatic Method of Hoare Verification Methods Based on Denotational Semantics LCF A Logic for Computable Functions Part D Prospects An Overview of Further Developments Bibliography Index Review of the First Edition one of the better books currently available which introduces program verification G Bunting University College Cardiff University Computing
