Trophy Hunting Geoffrey Beattie, 2019-10-08. This book explores the psychology of trophy hunting from a critical perspective and considers the reasons why some people engage in the controversial activity of killing often endangered animals for sport. Recent highly charged debate reaching a peak with the killing of Cecil the lion in 2015 has brought trophy hunting under unprecedented public scrutiny and yet the psychology of trophy hunting crucially remains under explored. Considering all related issues from the evolutionary perspective and inclusive fitness to personality and individual factors like narcissism empathy and the Duchenne smiles of hunters posing with their prey. Professor Beattie makes connections between a variety of indicators of prestige and dominance showing how trophy hunting is inherently linked to a desire for status. He argues that we need to identify analyse and deconstruct the factors that hold the behaviour of trophy hunting in place if we are to understand why it continues and indeed why it flourishes in an age of collapsing ecosystems and dwindling species populations. The first book of its kind to examine current research critically to determine whether there really is an evolutionary argument for trophy hunting and what range of motivations and personality traits may be linked to this activity. This is essential reading for students and academics in psychology geography business environmental studies animal welfare as well as policy makers and charities in these and related areas. It is of major relevance for anyone who cares about the future of our planet and the species that inhabit it.

The Trophy Hunted Paul F. Rafferty, 2016-08-31. The author penned this revenge thriller in the vein of a Twilight Zone episode that turns the tables on trophy hunters. BlueInk Reviews A gruesome tale that clearly and passionately condemns trophy hunting. Kirkus Reviews Jack is a husband father and chiropractor from Wisconsin who every year travels to Africa to satisfy his thirst for killing as a trophy hunter even though his wife does not approve of his habit. However the tables are turned when Jack is drugged and whisked away to a secret ranch where he finds himself with two other trophy hunters who ve met the same fate To his horror Jack learns that he and his new friends are now the hunted Weaponless and without food or water they must pit themselves against skilled bow hunters who pursue them as if they were no more valuable than the animals they themselves had killed The three struggle to outwit their killers and run for their lives The ordeal forces Jack to question his passion for killing animals just for the sake of sport Separated from his family and with his life hanging in the balance he begins to see himself as no less of a monster than the men who now seek to murder him for sport Guttled by guilt he desperately tries to escape so that he can return to his family and make things right Will Jack be able to escape his captors alive and if so will his life ever be the same again American Rifleman ,1923 The Canadian Magazine ,1917
