quantitative qualitative or mixed for analyzing research results and publishing research findings whether in traditional media or via new media outlets In addition to expected entries covering the basics of theories and methods traditionally used in communication research other entries discuss important trends influencing the future of that research including contemporary practical issues students will face in communication professions the influences of globalization on research use of new recording technologies in fieldwork and the challenges and opportunities related to studying online multi media environments Email texting cellphone video and blogging are shown not only as topics of research but also as means of collecting and analyzing data Still other entries delve into considerations of accountability copyright confidentiality data ownership and security privacy and other aspects of conducting an ethical research program Features 652 signed entries are contained in an authoritative work spanning four volumes available in choice of electronic or print formats Although organized A to Z front matter includes a Reader s Guide grouping entries thematically to help students interested in a specific aspect of communication research to more easily locate directly related entries Back matter includes a Chronology of the development of the field of communication research a Resource Guide to classic books journals and associations a Glossary introducing the terminology of the field and a detailed Index Entries conclude with References Further Readings and Cross References to related entries to guide students further in their research journeys The Index Reader s Guide themes and Cross References combine to provide robust search and browse in the e version Transformative Communication Studies Omar Swartz,2008-01-01 This interdisciplinary collection of essays charts intersections between communication cultural studies and a variety of emergent emancipatory and liberatory discourses Every essay attempts in one way or another to speak to the following questions What would a theory of liberation look like that is premised on a communication view of the world How would such a view expand and even redefine our understanding of liberation Finally how would such a view enlarge our understanding of what is collectively communally and organizationally possible In other words the chapters articulate what can be loosely considered a humanist theory of communication and praxis The goal is to move beyond discourses of liberation that are grounded in essentialist assumptions and to move the conversation toward an engaged criticism on cultural and social levels that facilitates and encourages progressive action This edited collection thus has as its goal a theory of human liberation grounded in communication as a resource for social and spiritual transformation The chapters comprise a mix of conceptual and applied studies that interrogate the communicative practices that naturalize our hierarchical world reifying and stultifying our moral and political imaginations As an antidote to this problem the contributors consider the importance of uncertainty and contingency in the development of human potential Rather than fearing uncertainty and contingency and allowing that fear to control us contributors argue that we should find within these conditions the source of our humanity and the strength to question and resist unjust social reifications When we do this we will rediscover the power of communication and regain an agency and control over our lives We then can start the difficult but humanizing process of constructing the world anew Case study exemplars of this construction thus are showcased
