I Drum, Therefore I Am Gareth Dylan Smith,2016-05-13 Despite their central role in many forms of music making drummers have been largely neglected in the scholarly literature on music and education But kit drummers are increasingly difficult to ignore While exponents of the drum kit are frequently mocked in popular culture they are also widely acknowledged to be central to the musical success and aesthetic appeal of any musical ensemble in which they are found Drummers are also making their presence felt in music education with increasing opportunities to learn their craft in formal contexts Drawing on data collected from in depth interviews and questionnaires Gareth Dylan Smith explores the identities practices and learning of teenage and adult kit drummers in and around London As a London based drummer and teacher of drummers Smith uses his own identity as participant researcher to inform and interpret other drummers accounts of their experiences Drummers learn in multi modal ways usually with a keen awareness of exemplars of their art and craft The world of kit drumming is highly masculine which presents opportunities and challenges to drummers of both sexes Smith proposes a new model of the Snowball Self which incorporates the constructs of identity realization learning realization meta identities and contextual identities Kit drummers identities practices and learning are found to be intertwined as drummers exist in a web of interdependence Drummers drum therefore they are they do and they learn in a rich tapestry of means and contexts School Document ,1930 An Analysis of Education Objectives and Outcomes in the Field of Health Education Carroll Roop Daugherty,William Edwin Burkard,William Leake Ayres,1927 An Analysis of Education Objectives and Outcomes in the Field of Health Education William Edwin Burkard,1927 A Study of the Present Position of the Student Young Men's Christian Association in Relation to Higher Education ,1925 Geometric Realizations Of Curvature Miguel Brozos-vazquez,Peter B Gilkey,Stana Z Nikcevic,2012-03-16 A central area of study in Differential Geometry is the examination of the relationship between the purely algebraic properties of the Riemann curvature tensor and the underlying geometric properties of the manifold In this book the findings of numerous investigations in this field of study are reviewed and presented in a clear coherent form including the latest developments and proofs Even though many authors have worked in this area in recent years many fundamental questions still remain unanswered Many studies begin by first working purely algebraically and then later progressing onto the geometric setting and it has been found that many questions in differential geometry can be phrased as problems involving the geometric realization of curvature Curvature decompositions are central to all investigations in this area The authors present numerous results including the Singer Thorpe decomposition the Bokan decomposition the Nikcevic decomposition the Tricerri Vanhecke decomposition the Gray Hervella decomposition and the De Smedt decomposition They then proceed to draw appropriate geometric conclusions from these decompositions The book organizes in one coherent volume the results of research completed by many different investigators over the past 30 years Complete proofs are given of results that are often only outlined in the original publications Whereas the original results are usually in the positive definite Riemannian setting here the authors extend the results to the pseudo Riemannian setting and then further in a complex framework to para Hermitian geometry as well In addition to that new results are obtained as well making this an ideal text for anyone wishing to further their knowledge of the science of curvature Proceedings
