

The Cold War

The Cold War took place between August 1945 and December 1991. The Cold War was between two superpowers, the United States and the USSR, although it affected many more countries. It was a different type of war where there was no direct fighting. Instead, each superpower would support opposing sides in smaller conflicts. There were also concerns that direct nuclear war would arise.

Cold War Alliances

The Second World War

By the end of the Second World War, the US and USSR were allies and were on the same side, fighting against Nazi Germany and its allies. Afterwards, there were differences and tensions which caused the Cold War to develop.

The Two Superpowers

The US is a democracy which means that the citizens vote in free elections for their government. The US government believed that capitalism, where private owners control their businesses, would be the best way for countries to recover from the Second World War. It can mean that people have different amounts of wealth depending upon their jobs and family circumstances.

The USSR had a different type of government led by the Communist Party. Communists believe that a country's wealth should be shared by everyone. People's lives in the USSR were closely controlled by the government and they did not have free elections in the same way as the US.

The Cold War

The End of the Cold War

By the late 1980s, the Cold War was proving too expensive for both the US and the USSR. There were also protests and demonstrations in many Eastern European countries against the USSR.

In November 1989, the Berlin Wall was broken down after protests.

On 25th December 1991, the leader of the Communist Party resigned and the Soviet Union was dissolved the following day. The Cold War was over.
