Tripled Sixesprop And Guide

Ron Padgett

Tripled Sixesprop And Guide:

New York Michael Gottlieb, 1993 Poetry The Great Pavement and The Ulterior Parkways the two long poems that make up Michael Gottlieb s NEW YORK each consist of sixty brief sections that are by turns elegant direct gritty oblique They offer the reader a completely refreshed sense and sensibility Like an extended exercise in tonal breath control the familiar sights and sounds and aspirations of city life pass through the author s prose refracted in the light of his prismatic feeling for the cultivated languages informational hums whines and clatters of urban life Beneath the cosmetic verities of the quotidian Gottlieb assays the shadows of ambition the underpainting of memory the bone structure of history the masks of humor What emerges is a generalized portrait of a particular place as much talk as take as much savvy as cool a cartographic thrust and parry rhythm flush with stories wised up with experience As grainy as the dots of a tabloid photo the sentences in Gottlieb s NEW YORK make attention specific They give us back a place we only thought we knew Doombook Michael Price, 1998

Present Tense Stephen Ratcliffe, 1995 Poetry Things happen fast and abundantly as perceived in the present tense Not that the present isn t selected as much as the past is but being less a function of memory and more of attention to the sights and sounds and textual material before the writer any truly responsible present tense seems less constructed than received it is both littered with specificity and cumulatively abstract Two constants in Ratcliffe s scanner as this long poem in twelve sections hums by among the legible many are the sudden recognitions of music intimately heard in ear and mind and the remarkable articulations of the sense around sunstruck plenitude of natural phenomena that literally radiates outwards from his person in all directions a not always pleasant but inescapably full creation whose principle of order is always change And then he asks why not learn to read the right way monosyllabically as if to slow himself and us down to the actual moments that yield sensory delight and knowledge of the world To be precise and yet as continuous as attention is particular is to harness the presentational immediacy of this work s operative poetic muscle As we read we listen to the language speak but we also hear it streak fly mope glance loaf seduce dance In these stanzaically subtle sections Ratcliffe s performative pen scores a possible creation one filled with all manner of unpredictable noticings dislocations mortal acknowledgments blink the vines cover the house Tizzy Boost Bruce Andrews, 1993 Ted Ron Padgett, 1993 LC copy inscribed by the author For Linda with love Ron No. 111 2.7.93-10.20.96 Kenneth Goldsmith, 1997 False Memory Tony Lopez, 1996 Poetry FALSE MEMORY is a major political poem written through the events of the 1990s representing the damaged world that we know in all its violence and inequality Focusing on public language rather than private experience FALSE MEMORY is a hilarious collage of all the specialized jargons and advertised slogans that situate us in the postmodern world Tripled Sixes - Prop and Guide Michael Anderson, Jr., Melanie Neilson, 1991-01-01
