Venus Halley Mission Experiment Descript:

Exploration of Halley's Comet Michael Grewing, Françoise Praderie, Rüdiger Reinhard, 2012-12-06 The 1985-86 apparition of Halley's Comet turned out to be the most important apparition of a comet ever. It provided a worldwide science community with a wealth of exciting new discoveries, the most remarkable of which was undoubtedly the first image of a cometary nucleus. Halley's Comet is the brightest periodic comet and the most famous of the 750 known comets. With its 76-year period, its recent appearance was truly a once-in-a-lifetime observational opportunity. The 1985-86 apparition was the thirtieth consecutive recorded apparition. Five apparitions ago, the English astronomer Edmond Halley discovered the periodicity of his comet and correctly predicted its return in 1758, a triumph for science best appreciated in the context of contemporary views or rather fears about comets at that time. The increasingly rapid progress in technological development is very much apparent when one compares the dominant tools for cometary research during Halley's next three apparitions: in 1835, studies were made based on drawings of the comet; in 1910, photographic plates were used; while in March 1986, an armada of six spacecraft from four space agencies approached the comet and carried out in situ measurements 1 AU from the Earth. In 1910, nobody could have dreamed that this was possible, and today it is equally difficult to anticipate what scientists will be able to achieve in 2061.

Venus-Halley Mission, 1986 Soviet Space Programs: Space science, space applications, military space programs, administration, resource burden, and master log of spaceflights, 1989 Field, Particle, and Wave Experiments on Cometary Missions K. Schwingenschuh, W. Riedler, 1986 Space Missions to Halley's Comet R. Reinhard, B. Battrick, 1986 Soviet space programs, 1988 Astronomy and Astrophysics Abstracts S. Böhme, U. Esser, H. Hefele, I. Heinrich, W. Hofmann, D. Krahn, V. R. Matas, L. D. Schmadel, G. Zech, 2013-12-14 From the reviews Astronomy and Astrophysics Abstracts has appeared in semi-annual volumes since 1969 and it has already become one of the fundamental publications in the fields of astronomy, astrophysics, and neighbouring sciences. It is the most important English language abstracting journal in the mentioned branches. The abstracts are classified under more than hundred subject categories, thus permitting a quick survey of the whole extended material. The AAA is a valuable and important publication for all students and scientists working in the fields of astronomy and related sciences. As such, it represents a necessary ingredient of any astronomical library all over the world.

Space Science Reviews 1. Dividing the whole field plus related subjects into 108 categories, each work is numbered and most are accompanied by brief abstracts. Fairly comprehensive cross-referencing links relevant papers to more than one category, and exhaustive author and subject indices are to be found at the back, making the catalogues easy to use. The series appears to be so complete in its coverage and always less than a year out of date that I shall certainly have to make a little more space on those shelves for future volumes.
