

Holland River And Its Tributaries

Meanderings of a stream rises twenty miles north of Toronto and sweeps around the whole of Southern Ontario.

*We love to sing of tiny stream,
Through the lowland meadows running,
To us it is a pleasing theme,
Tracing it from first beginning.*

*'Tis strange how far a brook will roam,
Moving onwards in its motion,
And not content till it reaches home,
Two thousand miles to distant ocean.*

*In county York springs a small brook,
A few miles north of Ontario,
But it doth take a wondrous crook,
It northward many miles doth flow.*

*Brook's progress south is stopped by ridge,
Doth debar its southern course,
So a long journey it don't grudge,
But slowly on its way doth force.*

*And it discharges at its mouth
Into the pure clear lake Simcoe,
It still flows north for to get south,
As onward still its course doth go.*

*Rejoicing along its way,
Hundreds of miles it doth flow west,
Blended in the Georgian Bay,
For a moment it doth not rest.*

*Mingling with Huron and St. Clair,
Erie and Niagara river,
Even at the Falls it don't despair,
But it cheerful flows forever.*

*One thousand miles round an ox bow,
It hath flowed back near its first start,
To waters of Ontario,
Where ridge at first kept it apart.*

*From south of ridge two rivers flow,
Both the Don and the Humber,
Embracing city of Toronto,
Hath attractions without number.*

*The fame will spread far and wide,
First of Don and then of Humber,
Improved rivers like to the Clyde,
With wharves for coal, wood, iron and lumber.*

Tributaries Poems:

Tributary Carey Salerno, 2021-04-20 From the author of Shelter ferocious poems that rail against a community's bigotry and culture of silence Tributary tells the heartbreaking story of family fracture of sisters estranged a brother excommunicated Arranged as a church service in tension with the ubiquitous mythic river that floods their landscape these fierce and urgent poems seek to expose the struggles and failings of family and faith the rigidity of conditional love and loyalty As they do they mirror our national systemic crises of Islamophobia sexism gun violence fanatical religiosity and white nationalism In Tributary a woman rejects the laws of the book of truth that she is raised under in order to discover and claim her own morality

River Bending N. Thomas Johnson-Medland, 2021-09-30 Rivers are not only about themselves and the way they curve and cut across landscapes and time but about an overall geology of the soul that goes on in each life all life Carrying things into our lives and away from our lives is just one of the mysteries of rivers and the tributaries that build them These poems of life and living in the precincts of the Delaware River and her tributaries underscore the relationship that we have with the wetness power passion shape and presence of waters in our lives Take a dip and be changed Open yourself to their wonder

Tributaries Kurt Luchs, 2025-12-02 In Tributaries Kurt Luchs chooses twenty poems that hold vital meaning for him as a reader and writer many but not all recognized as classics and pays twofold tribute to them First he explores each poem with a deep diving personal essay on how the poet works their magic upon us Then he gives a tribute poem of his own in response to or inspired by the poem under discussion The result is a uniquely well rounded multidimensional way of honoring great poems unlocking more of their treasures for both first time and long time lovers of poetry Poets featured are Wallace Stevens Robinson Jeffers David Ignatow Philip Larkin D H Lawrence Etheridge Knight Wislawa Szymborska Lucille Clifton Gabriela Mistral H D Jorge Luis Borges Federico Garcia Lorca Mary Oliver Lewis Carroll Kenneth Koch Homer Louise Glück Robert Bly Charles Simic and James Tate

Derelict Tributaries Lawrence Hetrick, 2012 Poetry These beautiful poems are steeped in the dark tannin of loss Redwater rivers blackwater rivers they carry on tributaries distributing memories through the sandy landscape of home The poems are formally measured with an elegiac economy quiet Eliotic echoes the ever presence of rain tupelo eelgrass sparkleberry oyster shell snake As they sensually evoke the Florida terrain these elegant poems say there never was a Paradise to lose we have only ever owned recurrent waves of growth and inevitable regret Sidney Wade Lawrence Hetrick has given his collection of emptied landscapes deserted promises and dilapidated fields an accurate and telling title DERELICT TRIBUTARIES portrays a world as real as what is here and what is gone from here with decisive economical strokes making a poetry that an artist like Edward Hopper would admire Underneath the surface lies an icy hope but nothing is sentimentalized in this space as lonely as a radio playing old songs Till dawn in a dark gas station I like this collection immensely There is something a little Hardy-esque about it the unflinchingness I guess but also the strong and lonesome presence of the observer A strong book Fred Chappell
