Thomas A. James

Visions Of Reality:

Gustav Deutsch and Hannah Schimek: Shirley, Visions of Reality Gustav Deutsch, Hanna Schimek, 2014 The exhibition and the catalogue deal with the topic of the staging of reality and replication and reconstruction in art taking the example of Edward Hopper The film Shirley addresses inter alia the fact that Edward Hopper did not reproduce reality in his paintings but instead combined individual set pieces to create a fictional reality a method that is also inherent in the medium of the film In the course of the three dimensional life sized transformation of 13 Hopper paintings for the film pictorial and sculptural artefacts were created that were combined into sets to produce the illusionist reality of the film 0The catalogue is a work of reference and a retrospective of the exhibition Visions of Reality by Gustav Deutsch and Hanna Schimek and the film Shirley by Gustav Deutsch The catalogue consists on the one hand of text elements Topics of the film and the exhibition by Brigitte Felderer Text on the film by Olaf Müller and an interview with the director Gustav Deutsch and the painter Hanna Schimek conducted by Thomas Edlinger and on the other hand comprises an extensive pictorial section photos making of storyboard sketches costumes lighting sketches painting sketches furniture sketches etc In Face of Reality Thomas A. James, 2011-04-01 This study of the work of noted liberal theologian Gordon Kaufman tracks his career from his first published book Relativism Knowledge and Faith 1960 through his 2006 book Jesus and Creativity in light of recent conversations about divine action and modern scientific knowledge James interprets Kaufman's mature position as a sophisticated reconstruction of divine activity that makes use of recent scientific theory and its naturalistic assumptions in order to revitalize a theocentric frame of reference rooted in classical theological tradition Though there are costs to be paid in the construction of a theology of radical naturalism particularly with respect to the relation between divine action and the human good Kaufman's program offers a distinctive way forward After developing a critical analysis of the limitations and possibilities of Kaufman's mature position James suggests that a christological reconsideration of the meaning of human flourishing offers the prospect of an even more radically naturalistic and theocentric theology Einstein, Tagore and the Nature of Reality Partha Ghose, 2016-06-23 The nature of reality has been a long debated issue among scientists and philosophers In 1930 Rabindranath Tagore and Albert Einstein had a long conversation on the nature of reality This conversation has been widely quoted and discussed by scientists philosophers and scholars from the literary world The important question that Tagore and Einstein discussed was whether the world is a unity dependent on humanity or the world is a reality independent on the human factor Einstein took the stand adopted by Western philosophers and mathematicians namely that reality is something independent of the mind and the human factor Tagore on the other hand adopted the opposite view Nevertheless both Einstein and Tagore claimed to be realists despite the fundamental differences between their conceptions of reality Where does the difference lie Can it be harmonized at some deeper level Can Wittgenstein for example be a bridge between the two views This collection of essays explores these two fundamentally different conceptions
