The Visual Arts as Human Experience Donald L. Weismann, 1970 How to look at and understand art The Visual Arts as human experience Donald L. Weisman, 1967 Visual Arts and Human Flourishing Professor Emerita Art History and Executive Director Emerita Usc Museums Selma Holo, Selma Holo, 2024 In mid December 2018 a man stood before one of the most beloved paintings in Europe Botticelli's The Birth of Venus and had a heart attack Henri Neuendorf ArtNet News December 19 2018 <https://news.artnet.com/art-world/heart-attack-botticelli-uffizi-1425448> Venus is that painting you're thinking of the one with the shapely wheat-haired woman standing in a seashell with one hand covering her breasts and the other holding her long golden locks in front of her groin Floating above her right shoulder are two winged figures with their arms wrapped around each other who blow air on her like distant kisses On her left stands a woman the Hora of Spring who holds what looks like a drape and gazes directly at our goddess whose face tilted just so looks toward the viewer with a gentle yet mature glance as if she was born knowing all one needs to know of love and seduction Fortunately the man whose heart failed while looking back at our all-knowing Venus survived but he was not the first to collapse while viewing art in Florence and no doubt he will not be the last It has happened often enough that there is a medical term for the phenomenon named after the first notable man to succumb Stendhal Syndrome Apparently the French author of On Love a treatise on romantic passion reported that he fell ill in 1817 after viewing too much Florentine art Bamforth 945 Is it any wonder that Botticelli's winged figures hang on to each other so tightly To be awestruck is to be in imminent danger The nature of human experience with language and education Çelen Dimililer, Ahmet Güneşli, 2023-06-05 Rhythms of Existence: From Cosmos to Human Experience Priyadarshi Patnaik, Tanusree Dutta, Archi Banerjee, Shankha Sanyal, 2026-03-19 This book is a multidisciplinary exploration of the concept of rhythm in diverse fields that are closely connected with our life and felt experience namely spirituality language and literature ecology socio-cultural contexts music visual arts and well-being Bringing together a collection of 24 essays by both eminent and young scholars which cover these diverse fields its uniqueness lies in the way that each essay provides insight into the concept of rhythm and also links itself to other related disciplines A book bridges the divide between humanities social and behavioral sciences and it is a must-read book for anyone who is interested either in the concepts of rhythm cycle harmony and their ubiquitous presence in all fields of knowledge MIND and LOVE: The Human Experience Lloyd Fell, 2011-01-04 The new scientific paradigm of embodied mind or situated cognition is percolating into popular mind science but its fundamentals autopoiesis and structural coupling have never been thoroughly explained Combines the paradigm shift in biology initiated by Maturana and Varela with the recent rush of ideas in social neuroscience to create what hopes to be a refreshingly new explanation of the way our mind works in our everyday experience and reveals the most common blind spots in what we thought we knew about our mind These blind spots are spoiling our individual lives and harming our prospects for peaceful coexistence and care of our environment e.g. the mistaken ideas that meaning is transferable that decisions come from conscious awareness or that knowledge is a commodity The biological significance of love and the value of embracing uncertainty and respecting the unknown point to a very hopeful vision for our future This is a scientific explanation of mind leavened with process philosophy also invoking spirituality without any religious connotation
