Barceló, Maurizio Forte, Donald H. interpretative processes so that a degree of reliability of visualization outcomes can be understood. The disadvantages of not providing this kind of intellectual transparency in the communication of historical content may result in visual products that only convey a small percentage of the knowledge that they embody, thus making research findings not susceptible to peer review and rendering them closed to further discussion. It is argued therefore that paradata should be recorded alongside more tangible outcomes of research preferably as an integral part of virtual models and sustained beyond the life span of the technology that underpins visualization. Good Practice in Archaeological Diagnostics Cristina Corsi, Božidar Slapšak, Frank Vermeulen, 2013-12-11. This volume represents the most important deliverable of the European funded project Radio Past www.radiopast.eu. It is intended to disseminate the key results achieved in the form of methodological guidelines for the application of non-destructive approaches in order to understand, visualize and manage complex archaeological sites in particular large multi-period settlements whose remains are still mostly buried. The authors were selected from among the project research staff but also from among leading international specialists who served as speakers at the two international events organized in the framework of the project: the Valle Giulia Colloquium of Rome 2009 and the Colloquium of Ghent 2013 and at the three Specialization Fora, the high formation training activities organized in 2010, 2011 and 2012. As such, the book offers contributions on diverse aspects of the research process: data capture, data management, data elaboration, data visualization and site management, presenting the state of the art and drafting guidelines for good practice in each field.
