Structure Of The Life Course Standardized Individualized Differentiated:

The Structure of the Life Course: Standardized? Individualized? Differentiated? Ross Macmillan, 2005-07-14 Current debates in life course studies increasingly reference theories of individualization standardization and differentiation in the structure of the life course This volume brings together leading scholars from a variety of fields to assess the theoretical underpinnings the empirical evidence and the implications of existing arguments The contributions include comparative historical work demographic analysis and detailed survey research The topics covered include historical cross cultural and racioethnic variation in the transition to adulthood the school to work transition educational careers retirement activity characteristics over the life span and the life course context of psychological well being The various contributions expand our understanding of the contemporary life course and its implications The authors offer innovative theoretical and methodological approaches that demonstrate the utility of holistic approaches to conceptualizing the life course and understanding its implications for modern society

Handbook of Work-Family Integration Karen Korabik, Donna S. Lero, Denise L. Whitehead, 2011-04-28 In today's industrialized societies the majority of parents work full time while caring for and raising their children and managing household upkeep trying to keep a precarious balance of fulfilling multiple roles as parent worker friend child Increasingly demands of the workplace such as early or late hours travel commute relocation etc conflict with the needs of being a parent At the same time it is through work that people increasingly define their identity and self worth and which provides the opportunity for personal growth interaction with friends and colleagues and which provides the income and benefits on which the family subsists The interface between work and family is an area of increasing research in terms of understanding stress job burn out self esteem gender roles parenting behaviors and how each facet affects the others The research in this area has been widely scattered in journals in psychology family studies business sociology health and economics and presented in diverse conferences e.g. APA SIOP Academy of Management It is difficult for experts in the field to keep up with everything they need to know with the information dispersed This Handbook will fill this gap by synthesizing theory research policy and workplace practice organizational policy issues in one place The book will be useful as a reference for researchers in the area as a guide to practitioners and policy makers and as a resource for teaching in both undergraduate and graduate courses

Soviet and Post-Soviet Lithuania - Generational Experiences Laima Zilinskiene, Melanie Ilic, 2011-12-30 This book explores the impact on different generations of Lithuanians of the fifty year Soviet modernisation project which was implemented in Lithuania from 1940 to 1991 It reveals the specific characteristics of the last Soviet generation born in the 1970s and sets this generation apart from those who were born earlier and later It analyses changes in attitudes choices and relationships in a variety of social spheres and contexts and the adaptation skills which were required during the late Soviet and post Soviet transformation processes Overall it presents a great deal of detail on the social experiences of different generations in late Soviet and post Soviet society

Retirement Timing and Social

Stratification Jonas Radl,2014-01-23 The monograph disseminates the very topical issue of retirement and its timing as the key to one of the greatest challenges facing ageing societies Postponing retirement is now almost universally regarded as indispensable in order to relieve European welfare states from the demography related financial pressures This seminal study derived from a statistical analysis of a large scale survey data provides a thorough understanding of the micro and macro level determinants of retirement timing in contemporary Western Europe The book is the first monograph to combine the analysis of the retirement attitudes with the analysis of the retirement behaviour within one research It tackles the question as to whether early retirement can be explained by early exit culture triangulating life course theory with a social stratification approach The author used a novel and innovative approach to obtain the results The methodology includes tobit models of proscriptive age norms simulations of the impact of class structure on a country s average retirement age competing risks models of different work exit modalities duration selection models of retirement timing

Transitions from School to Work Ingrid Schoon,Rainer K. Silbereisen,2009-08-24 This volume made an important contribution to the growing literature on the transition from school to work It provides a different perspective on the global changes that have transformed school to work transitions since the 1970s offers an integrative conceptual framework for analysis and promotes a comparative cross national understanding of school to work transitions in a changing social context The articles assembled in this volume compare and assess variations in school to work transitions across Europe and North America providing empirical evidence on how young people negotiate the different options and opportunities available and assessing the costs and returns associated with different transition strategies Unlike many other volumes on this subject which are pitched at either the macro or micro level this volume attempts to integrate both perspectives capturing the complexity of this critical life course transition Furthermore the authors address policies aimed at improving the capacity of individuals to make effective transitions and at enabling societies to better coordinate educational and occupational institutions

A Young Generation Under Pressure? Joerg Tremmel,2010-02-05 Justice between generations is still not as prominent on any agenda as justice between rich and poor or men and women For the first time this three part book explores the situation of young people of today in comparison to their direct predecessors The first part The Financial Situation of the Young Generation in a Generational Comparison deals with this generation s financial standing the second part The Rush Hour of Life examines their time restrictions Both are considered from a life course perspective The third part On the Path to Gerontocracy addresses the demographic shift in favor of the elderly in aging Western democracies

Social Structures K. Warner Schaie,Peter Uhlenberg,2007-03-23 Significant demographic changes are altering the structure of the American population Larger numbers of immigrants are entering the work force will become part of our aging population and increasingly are providing care for the elderly Family structures and communities are evolving as marriage childbearing divorce and cohabitation trends are changing The working population that supports the elderly physically and economically is also changing and will most likely become smaller and less able to support this growing population What does this mean for the well being of our aging population and our efforts to ensure the quality of life for our elderly now and that we will want to enjoy ourselves as we become part of this older population In this volume Drs Schaie and Uhlenberg and a host of leading scholars look at the current structure of the American population in an effort to determine the impact it will have on the lives of the elderly and those growing older with disabilities and chronic illness They examine the effects of the aging baby boomers on health care migration and immigration and how it can support or tax health care networks cultural issues regarding access to health care and changing cultural attitudes towards marriage and family that are affecting the relationships between the elderly and their communities

Social Change and Human Development Rainer K Silbereisen, Xinyin Chen, 2010-05-26 Today's world is characterized by a set of overarching trends that often come under the rubric of social change In this innovative volume Rainer K Silbereisen and Xinyin Chen bring together for the first time international experts in the field to examine how changes in our social world impact on our individual development Divided into four parts the book explores the major socio political and technological changes that have taken place around the world from post from the rapid upheavals in 1990s Europe to the gradual changes in parts of East Asia and explains how these developments interplay with human development across the lifespan Human Development and Social Change is a useful resource for students and researchers involved in all areas of human development including developmental psychology sociology and education

Generations, 2007 Invitation to the Life Span Kathleen Stassen Berger, 2013-03-01 Edition after edition Kathleen Stassen Berger's bestselling textbooks connect all kinds of students to current state of developmental psychology in an engaging accessible culturally inclusive way Berger's Invitation to the Life Span does this in just 15 concise chapters in a presentation that meets the challenges of exploring the breadth of the life span in a single term The new edition of Invitation to the Life Span incorporates a wide range of new research especially in fast moving areas such as brain development and psychopathology while taking advantage of innovative new tools for media centered teaching and learning But throughout as always the signature voice of Kathleen Berger ties it all together with relatable explanations of scientific content wide ranging cultural examples and skill building tools for sharper observation and critical thinking

Changes at the Intersection of Work and Family, Volume 2 Heidi R. Riggio, Diane F. Halpern, 2006-10-02 The largest social change in the last 50 years has been the increase in the number of women especially mothers of young children in the formal work force The May 2006 and June 2006 volumes of American Behavioral Scientist look at how this powerful transformation has impacted the venerable foundations of work and family and reflect on the changes needed in organizational practices social and public policy families and society in general to adapt to the changing 21st century workforce Changes at the Intersection of Work and Family Organizational and Worker Perspectives Volume 1 May 2006 edited by Diane F Halpern and Heidi Riggio focuses on organizational and worker perspectives Many studies have shown that there is a substantial and practical return on investment for employers that adopt and commit to policies that help employees better manage the needs of both work and family including fewer missed days of work fewer come late or leave early days reduced employee turnover improved morale and a better commitment to the employer Volume 1 emphasizes topics such as the need for improved work life policies successful and promising public policy approaches long term work life case studies from IBM the dual earner 60 hour work week work family and obesity and other health issues the real and perceived negative consequences of taking advantage of family friendly policies the differences between male and female caregivers and a whole life approach to managing work and family Changes at the Intersection of Work and Family Family Perspectives Volume 2 June 2006 edited by Heidi Riggio and Diane F Halpern highlights family perspectives and issues such as working parents expanding need for child care after school care elder care and medical leave The six articles in this volume examine how policymakers and organizations can help maximize working families health productivity and happiness Volume 2 covers subjects such as maternal employment and healthy child and young adult development how working affects mothers self identity and other positive factors the stress of parents coping with after school child care why community programs and support such as after school programs are so necessary to working families and how dual earning households mutually influence each others retirement planning The same important point is made in all of the articles in both volumes there are tremendous changes taking place in families and in workplaces and social organizational and public policies must be better aligned to meet to the needs of and to benefit from the greater diversity in today s families and workforce Written by outstanding scholars and researchers in public policy economics sociology psychology business and family studies including Barbara Gault Vicky Lovell E Jeffrey Hill et al Tammy D Allen Jeremy Armstrong Robert Drago et al Noelle Chesley Stewart D Friedman Allen W Gottfried Adele E Gottfried Patricia M Raskin Rosalind C Barnett Karen C Gareis Marcie Pitts Catasouphe and Phyllis Moen the articles in both volumes ask critical questions and offer some interesting and sensible solutions to the changing realities of work and family These volumes should be in the library and in the classrooms of everyone interested in Public Policy Business Management Psychology Family Studies Sociology and Economics

Improving School-to-Work Transitions
David Neumark, 2007-01-09 As anxieties about America s economic competitiveness mounted in the 1980s so too did concerns that the nation s schools were not adequately preparing young people for the modern workplace Spurred by widespread joblessness and job instability among young adults the federal government launched ambitious educational reforms in the 1990s to promote career development activities for students In recent years however the federal government has shifted its focus to test based reforms like No Child Left Behind that emphasize purely academic subjects At this critical juncture in education reform Improving School To Work Transitions edited by David Neumark weighs the successes and failures of the 90s era school to work initiatives and assesses how high schools colleges and government can help youths make a smoother transition into stable well paying employment Drawing on evidence from national longitudinal studies

surveys interviews and case studies the contributors to Improving School To Work Transitions offer thought provoking perspectives on a variety of aspects of the school to work problem Deborah Reed Christopher Jepsen and Laura Hill emphasize the importance of focusing school to work programs on the diverse needs of different demographic groups particularly immigrants who represent a growing proportion of the youth population David Neumark and Donna Rothstein investigate the impact of school to work programs on the forgotten half students at the greatest risk of not attending college Using data from the 1997 National Longitudinal Study of Youth they find that participation by these students in programs like job shadowing mentoring and summer internships raise employment and college attendance rates among men and earnings among women In a study of nine high schools with National Academy Foundation career academies Terry Orr and her fellow researchers find that career academy participants are more engaged in school and are more likely to attend a four year college than their peers Nan Maxwell studies the skills demanded in entry level jobs and finds that many supposedly low skilled jobs actually demand extensive skills in reading writing and math as well as the new basic skills of communication and problem solving Maxwell recommends that school districts collaborate with researchers to identify which skills are most in demand in their local labor markets At a time when test based educational reforms are making career development programs increasingly vulnerable it is worth examining the possibilities and challenges of integrating career related learning into the school environment Written for educators policymakers researchers and anyone concerned about how schools are shaping the economic opportunities of young people Improving School To Work Transitions provides an authoritative guide to a crucial issue in education reform

The Developing Person Through the Life Span Kathleen Stassen Berger, 2011-03-15 Edition after edition Kathleen Stassen Berger's perennial bestseller The Developing Person Through the Life Span re establishes itself as the most authoritative engaging and teachable textbook available for the life span course The new edition is no exception As always Berger's narrative style and emphasis on diversity and universal themes speak directly to students The book's thoroughly updated coverage makes the latest scientific and theoretical developments about the brain genetics and cultural diversity accessible and meaningful And powerful media tools such as DevelopmentPortal the interactive e Book and the Video Tool Kit for Human Development give students realistic observational experience to further enhance their study Watch a video interview with Kathleen Berger at www.worthpublishers.com/bergerls8epreview
