Architecture and the Forest Aesthetic Jana VanderGoot, 2017-12-22 Despite population trends toward urbanization the forest continues to have a strong appeal to the human imagination and the human preference for forest over many other types of terrain is well documented This book re imagines architecture and urbanism by allowing the forest to be a prominent consideration in the language of design thus recognizing the forest as essential rather than just incidental to human well being In Architecture and the Forest Aesthetic forest is a large scale urban construct that is far more extensive and nuanced than trees and shrubbery The forest aesthetic opens designers to the forest as a model for an urban architecture of permeable floors protective canopies connected food chains beneficial decomposition and resilient ecologies Much can be learned about these features of the forest from the natural sciences however when they are given due consideration technically and metaphorically in the design of urban habitat the places in which humans live become living forests What is present here in Architecture and the Forest Aesthetic is both a review of many ingenious ways in which the forest aesthetic has already been expressed in design and urbanism and an encouragement to further use the forest aesthetic in design language and design outcomes Case study projects featured include the Chilotan building craft of Southern Chile the yaki sugi of Japan the Biltmore Forest in the Southeastern United States the Australian capital city Canberra Bosco Verticale in Milan Italy the Beijing Olympic Forest Park in China and more The Forest Schoolmaster Peter Rosegger, 1900 The Forests and Gardens of South India Hugh Francis Clarke Cleghorn, 1861 Return of Statistics Relating to Forest Administration in British India India.
