Neuroethics in Principle and Praxis Denis Larrivee, 2019-09-04 With the conclusion of the Decade of the Brain and Decade of the Mind neuroscience has advanced well beyond single neuron functions and begun to investigate global properties that emerge from central nervous system operation Core ethical issues for neural intervention in consequence now touch on concerns over how the individual as a whole may be affected Central to these concerns is the fundamental value of the human being which lends normative weight to questions interventions and practices influencing him or her Yet despite wide recognition of the crucial relevance of human value the derivation of metaethical principles that underwrite this value is by no means uniformly agreed to Why and how the human being is normatively privileged accordingly emerge as core questions that frame issues of ethical praxis This book tackles this dissonance and exposes the philosophical foundations that are rooting contemporary divisions in ethical approaches to intervention in the nervous system Neural Mechanisms

Underlying Movement-Based Embodied Contemplative Practices Laura Schmalzl, Catherine E. Kerr, 2016-07-05 Relative to the extensive neuroscientific work on seated meditation practices far less studies have investigated the neural mechanisms underlying movement based contemplative practices such as yoga or tai chi Movement based practices have however been found to be effective for relieving the symptoms of several clinical conditions and to elicit measurable changes in physiological neural and behavioral parameters in healthy individuals An important challenge for neuroscience is therefore to advance our understanding of the neurophysiological and neurocognitive mechanisms underlying these observed effects and this Research Topic aims to make a contribution in this regard It showcases the current state of the art of investigations on movement based practices including yoga tai chi the Feldenkrais Method as well as dance Featured contributions include empirical research proposals of theoretical frameworks as well as novel perspectives on a variety of issues relevant to the field This Research Topic is the first of its kind to specifically attempt a neurophysiological and neurocognitive characterization that spans multiple mindful movement approaches and we trust it will be of interest to basic scientists clinical researchers and contemplative practitioners alike
