The New Testament Apocrypha Jacques Hervieux, 1960 The apocryphal writings set out to tell us what the Gospels have not said From them we have a whole collection of traditions or ideas which are familiar to us today The author outlines the apocryphal books detailing their sources their validity and their individual deviations He shows the interesting details surrounding their creation and gives the reasons they were not included in the Bible New Testament Apocrypha, vol. 1

Tony Burke, Brent Landau, 2016-12-02 Compilation of little known and never before published apocryphal Christian texts in English translation This anthology of ancient nonbiblical Christian literature presents informed introductions to and readable translations of a wide range of little known apocryphal texts most of which have never before been translated into any modern language An introduction to the volume as a whole addresses the most significant features of the writings included and contextualizes them within the contemporary study of the Christian Apocrypha The body of the book comprises thirty texts that have been carefully introduced copiously annotated and translated into English by eminent scholars With dates of composition ranging from the second century CE to early in the second millennium these fascinating texts provide a more complete picture of Christian thought and expression than canonical texts alone can offer

The Apocryphal Gospels Charles River Charles River Editors, Gustavo Vazquez Lozano, 2017-01-24 Includes pictures Includes excerpts from the apocrypha Includes a list of the apocrypha online resources and a bibliography for further reading

Between 50 and 90 CE the various writings that comprise the New Testament were written including the Four Gospels the Acts of the Apostles the Epistles of Paul and other letters to more general communities of the early Church But what is recognized as the 26 books of the New Testament today in literally hundreds of English translations actually took several more centuries to be determined as canonical by the Church In fact it was not until a synod in Rome in 382 that the Church in the West formally adopted a list of the canonical books of the New Testament For the intervening three centuries there was much discussion among different writers over the many manuscripts circulating among the early Christian communities Many of the manuscripts were anonymously authored by members of early heretical groups of Christians who shaped supposedly inspired writings to provide support for their doctrinal positions Many more had the veneer of inspired texts because they were attributed to one of the Twelve Apostles or Mary the mother of Jesus they claimed to offer details of Jesus life not covered in depth in the Four Gospels such as his infancy and childhood or the activities of the named apostle or doctrinal teachings The process of determining the Canon of the New Testament was a long one It involved numerous scholars directed by the teachings of the Church sifting through numerous manuscripts with various attributed authorships The 29 that made it into the canon were those that passed muster in terms of apostolic authorship and conformity to orthodox Church teaching Most of those that did not make it in failed on those two accounts Others were not included because they were judged not to have been written under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit Whatever the reason they were excluded the writings that comprise the New Testament Apocrypha while not inspired Scripture do show something of the context in which the early Church developed its doctrines and its writings Even today not every branch of the Christian church agrees on which writings should be regarded as canonical and which are apocryphal even though some apocryphal texts often have noticeable links with books regarded as canonical Regardless the New Testament Apocrypha refers to texts written by early Christians that were not included in the Bible used by the main branches of Christianity today These texts vary in subject matter with some being accounts of Jesus others being about the nature of God and still others being accounts and teachings of Jesus apostles What makes them fascinating is not just the history behind why they are considered non canonical but what they tell us about the early Church and early Christianity Moreover they offer insight into what sources were used to write them and whether they shared the same sources as the texts that comprise the Bible today Given their historical and religious importance there is still a fierce debate over the authenticity of many of these texts The Apocryphal Gospels The History of the New Testament Apocrypha Not Included in the Bible looks at some of the famous texts that were kept out of the Bible Along with pictures of important people places and events you will learn about the apocryphal books like never before Lost Books of the Bible Charles River Charles River Editors,2018-01-11 Includes famous artwork depicting Jesus Saints and more Discusses the most well known Lost Books of The Bible including what is discussed in them and their relation to canonical texts Discusses historians theories as to who wrote these books where they were written and when Includes a Bibliography for further reading The Bible is the most famous book in the world read by a countless number of Christians and others over the centuries Even those who aren t Christian or remotely religious can rattle off Matthew Mark Luke and John as the first four gospels of the New Testament and books like Genesis and Exodus include some of the most famous stories in human history Of course the Bible is composed of dozens of different texts that collectively combined to form it and the process of establishing which texts were canonical and included in the Bible took centuries of fierce debate among early Christians Even today not every branch of the Christian church agrees on which writings should be regarded as canonical and which are apocryphal even though some apocryphal texts often have noticeable links with books regarded as canonical It was only in the late 4th century A D that a proposed list of texts for the Bible was even put forward The New Testament Apocrypha refers to texts written by early Christians that were not included in the Bible used by the main branches of Christianity today These texts vary in subject matter with some being accounts of Jesus others being about the nature of God and still others being accounts and teachings of Jesus apostles What makes them fascinating is not just the history behind why they are considered non canonical but what they tell us about the early Church and early Christianity Moreover they offer insight into what sources were used to write them and whether they shared the same sources as the texts that comprise the Bible today Given their historical and religious importance there is still a fierce debate over the

Apocrypha including many works which were admired and read by the early Christians but which were later excluded from the canonical Bible It includes accounts of the young Jesus particularly the Gospel of Mary and the Protevangelion which provides additional folklore about the birth and youthful adventures of Jesus Of note are the letters of Paul and Seneca and the letters of Herod and Pilate which are most likely a forgery but add more depth to the question of the historicity of Jesus There are also a number of noncanonical epistles such as Laodiceans Also worth a close read are the three books of the Shepherd of Hermas which uses apocalyptic and symbolic imagery This collection is an invaluable selection of portions of the New Testament which illustrates the fluid nature of the early Biblical canon and provides access to all of the spare parts
