Tea With Mubolini Spanish:

Mrs Ferguson's Tea-set, Japan and the Second World War Eiji Seki, 2006-11-09 The saga of the sinking of the Blue Funnel Line's ill-fated SS Automedon in November 1940 by the German commerce raider Atlantis is well documented but in this new work the author argues that he is not just setting the history right in terms of the inaccuracies so far reported but is also offering significant new information based on direct contact with surviving members of the Automedon's crew and their families together with access to new primary sources Offering a Japanese perspective for the first time the book tracks the role of the Japanese navy as a silent partner and active participant in the war at sea against Britain and her allies prior to Japan's flagrant formal entry into the Second World War at Pearl Harbor The author argues that the cooperation between the German and Japanese navies led to Japan's final defeat when Admiral Yamamoto was misled by the intelligence obtained from the confidential Cabinet papers recovered from the Automedon One of the most significant conclusions to be drawn from this fascinating story that is relived here is how chance impacts on the outcome of conflict had not Mrs Violet Ferguson who was on board the Automedon at the time of its capture asked for the trunk containing her precious tea set to be saved the German crew would never have found the Automedon's secret strong room containing the Most Secret papers

The Land of the Leal James Barke, 1987. This novel, closer in scope to a Russian epic than to any English counterpart, opens at the turn of the century in the extreme poverty of the Rhinns of Galloway. Its title refers to the Scottish peasant's heaven.

The Death of Don Quixote Eliezer Oyola, 2011-05. This essay was inspired by the tragic events of September 11, 2001, in New York City and other strategic places in the United States. The author studies the fictional character created by Miguel de Cervantes in 1605 from a variety of perspectives. He relates the death of Don Quixote to the destruction of the famed twin towers, thus arriving at a symbolic interpretation of certain epoch-making events in the history of mankind. Special emphasis is given to imperial politics and the history of communication technology. The term "technological extension" was suggested by the studies of Marshall McLuhan and others. The main premise is that with every technological extension come vast cultural transformations and new perceptions of the universe. The reader will most certainly perceive in this essay, as James Joyce said in Ulysses, a myriad of metamorphoses of symbol.
