Teacher Personal Theorizing:

Teacher Personal Theorizing E. Wayne Ross, Jeffrey Cornett, Gail McCutcheon, 1992-09-09 This book examines the relationship between teacher theorizing and teacher action as illustrated by the curricular and instructional practices of teachers The authors show that all teaching is guided by theory developed by the teachers Teachers could not begin to practice without some knowledge of the context of their practice and without ideas about what can and should be done in those circumstances In this sense teachers are guided by personal practical theories that structure their activities and guide them in making decisions This literature is very significant in explaining and interpreting many phenomena of schooling such as why teachers alter curriculum documents and other policies how inservice education can be improved how supervisors can help teachers to improve their practices and how administrators can become leaders to improve education This perspective has broad and specific implications for every facet of education Those interested in teacher education and development in supervision in curriculum and in administration will find it especially relevant International Handbook of Research on Teachers' Beliefs Helenrose Fives, Michele Gregoire Gill, 2014-08-21 Teacher beliefs play a fundamental role in the education landscape Nevertheless most educational researchers only allude to teacher beliefs as part of a study on other subjects This book fills a necessary gap by identifying the importance of research on teacher beliefs and providing a comprehensive overview of the topic It provides novices and experts alike a single volume with which to understand a complex research landscape Including a review of the historical foundations of the field this book identifies current research trends and summarizes the current knowledge base regarding teachers specific beliefs about content instruction students and learning For its innumerable applications within the field this handbook is a necessity for anyone interested in educational research Balancing Care and Excellence in Higher Education ,2024-04-15 We believe the world needs more care This volume seeks to describe theoretical empirical and phenomenological evidence toward creating a higher education environment that values excellence in its teaching research and service while at the same time ensuring that those involved in these endeavors are cared for The primary purpose is to provide a state of the art synthesis of the delicate balance between striving for excellence in higher education while at the same time exhibiting an ethic of care for all stakeholders involved The second purpose is to honor the work and legacy of Jeffrey W Cornett who embodied this balance during his long and successful career in higher education Upon Dr Cornett s retirement it is fitting to visit balance between care and excellence as multiple tensions push and pull on higher education from innovative ideas changing funding structures and the corporatization of higher education This volume will serve to inform all those invested in faculty development student learning and administration in higher education from educational researchers practitioners and policymakers with the most up to date understandings of how we can simultaneously strive for excellence in higher education and simultaneously ensure that those around us in this shared space are cared for Contributors are Carolyn Ali Khan Richard Chant Jeffrey W Cornett

Instructional Models in Reading Steven A. Stahl, David A. Hayes, 2013-04-03 This book started with a simple idea examine models of reading instruction that have emerged during the past 20 years These models span a wide range of instruction representing a continuum from highly structured task analytic instruction to child centered and holistic instruction Each model has its own epistemology or views on how reading and instruction are to be defined The different epistemologies indicate different principles of instruction which in turn indicate different practices in the classroom Each model is also supported by a different research base In this volume leading proponents of these different models discuss their ideas about reading instruction thereby encouraging readers to make their own comparisons and contrasts The chapter authors seem to adopt the editors eclectic approach to some greater or lesser extent incorporating aspects of other models into their instruction as they see other goals Thus models of reading instruction are complex Complicating matters further is the fact that teachers hold their own models of reading which may or may not be congruent with those discussed here Although academically developed models influence college preservice and in service instruction teachers own models of reading filter the information that they take from what they learn from these perspectives By carefully examining these variables this book makes a firm contribution toward disciplined inquiry into what it means to teach reading
