It discusses advances in offshore wind technology, grid-connected systems, grid stabilization, and wind turbine design and highlights. Written from an international perspective, chapters focus on the status of wind energy in various regions and countries across the globe, outlining the positive impact its implementation has had on delaying the catastrophic effects of climate change.

AEROSPACE HEAT TRANSFER AND FLUIDS IN THE AGE OF AI Dr. Nishith Kumar Reddy Gorla, 2026-02-08 The aerospace industry is entering a new era where heat transfer, fluid mechanics, computational fluid dynamics (CFD), artificial intelligence, and reliability engineering converge to define the performance and safety of next-generation systems. This book provides a comprehensive and forward-looking framework for understanding and applying intelligent thermal fluid engineering in modern aerospace applications. Beginning with the foundations of aerospace thermal fluid science, the book revisits heat transfer and fluid mechanics through the lens of high-speed, high-temperature, and multiphysics aerospace environments. It examines aircraft, spacecraft, propulsion systems, and hypersonic vehicles, highlighting the limitations of traditional analysis methods and the growing need for data-driven and reliability-focused approaches. A substantial portion of the book is dedicated to computational fluid dynamics, covering governing equations, numerical methods, turbulence modeling, conjugate heat transfer, and multiphysics coupling. Building on this foundation, the text introduces artificial intelligence and machine learning techniques tailored for thermal fluid systems, including surrogate modeling, reduced-order models, Physics-Informed Neural Networks (PINNs), and AI-assisted CFD acceleration. The book advances into AI-enhanced CFD and digital twin technologies, demonstrating how real-time state estimation, model updating, and lifecycle monitoring enable predictive insights across aerospace systems. A dedicated section on reliability engineering and uncertainty quantification addresses failure mechanisms driven by thermal and fluid stresses, stochastic CFD sensitivity analysis, and confidence bounds in AI predictions. Practical relevance is reinforced through chapters on predictive maintenance, fault detection, prognostics, and remaining useful life (RUL) estimation supported by explainable AI methods for safety-critical diagnostics. Detailed applications and case studies span propulsion systems, hypersonic and space vehicles, unmanned and autonomous platforms, and advanced thermal management strategies. The final sections address verification, validation, certification, and ethics, including regulatory considerations from FAA, EASA, and NASA, as well as the challenges of deploying trustworthy AI in safety-critical aerospace systems. Computational workflows, software tools, real-world datasets, and design projects make the book both a research reference and a practical engineering guide Passion killers: The art of passion killing in the age of stress and anxiety Phillip Walden Bowen,2021-09-07 There is growing pressure and stress placed on organisations to fight for customers and service product placement in an increasingly competitive global marketplace It has therefore never been more important to get the best out of the workforce To achieve this the role of the leader can be a fundamental factor in organisational success or failure Leaders need to have the requisite skills to reflect the demands placed upon them in the 21st century There are the accidental managers who just drop into the role of leadership and others who may develop skills and knowledge in readiness for a leadership role There are also those who may have the innate ability to lead Within the mix are those who are characterised by traits associated with the dark triad or who may use pathocratic influence on others to conform reinforcing values or lack of values associated with toxic leadership They create damage and harm They become passion killers The result can lead to a pathocracy This book discusses the role emotional intelligence plays in helping people deal with stressful and challenging experiences suggesting different ways to cope The author reflects on the values that are integral to the success or failure of an organisation Passion is identified as an added value that can differentiate one organisation from another If passion is harmed it can affect motivation creativity output performance and productivity Therefore this book provides the reader with examples of passion killing while making suggestions as to factors that can be adopted to engage and encourage passion Conclusions are drawn and recommendations made to support those faced with passion killers This book is aimed at those of all ages and educational backgrounds interested in developing their leadership knowledge and skills It is also aimed at those interested in learning more about differences in personality emotional intelligence stress coping values and the importance of understanding the impact of passion killers VCR and Film Catalog ,1986 Complexity Thinking: Science in the Age of Alternative Truths Cornelis Pieter Pieters,2024-04-26 Many scholars agree that we are currently living in post ideological times and that the role of religion and social ideology has become increasingly limited as a means to organise society Some even talk of a post truth era as truth itself has become suspect and public debate has become infected with terms such as fake news and alternative truths In fact in many scientific areas the notions of truth objectivity and fact are being questioned and are often even considered instruments that aim to perpetuate relationships of power of elites This book aims to take a position in these debates by looking at the often implicit associations behind truth objectivity and fact By taking a complexity informed dialectical approach a more encompassing understanding of these concepts can be developed that both respects the formidable achievements of science while being sensitive to the critique that has been raised most notably by postmodern thought
