The Accidental Superpower Mr. Peter Zeihan,2014-11-04 With a new 10 years later epilogue for every chapter comes an eye opening assessment of American power and deglobalization in the bestselling tradition of The World is Flat and The Next 100 Years Near the end of the Second World War the United States made a bold strategic gambit that rewired the international system Empires were abolished and replaced by a global arrangement enforced by the U S Navy With all the world s oceans safe for the first time in history markets and resources were made available for everyone Enemies became partners We think of this system as normal it is not We live in an artificial world on borrowed time In The Accidental Superpower international strategist Peter Zeihan examines how the hard rules of geography are eroding the American commitment to free trade how much of the planet is aging into a mass retirement that will enervate markets and capital supplies and how against all odds it is the ever ravenous American economy that alone among the developed nations is rapidly approaching energy independence Combined these factors are doing nothing less than overturning the global system and ushering in a new dis order For most that is a disaster in waiting but not for the Americans The shale revolution allows Americans to sidestep an increasingly dangerous energy market Only the United States boasts a youth population large enough to escape the sucking maw of global aging Most important geography will matter more than ever in a de globalizing world and America s geography is simply sublime

Summary of Peter Zeihan's The Accidental Superpower Everest Media,2022-04-06T22:59:00Z Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 The Bretton Woods conference was held in 1944 and was responsible for creating the World Bank the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development The Americans were in charge of the Allied side of the war and they were the only ones who wanted these institutions 2 The Americans had a navy that was the most powerful in the world after the Nazis and the Japanese were defeated and the British had no navy at all The British could still claim to have a potent navy but it was a subsidiary force compared to the American fleet 3 The American team presented their two part plan to the French and European delegates which was completely different from what the Soviets expected them to do They would open their markets but only one way 4 The Americans at the conference proposed a global trading system in which they would provide full security for all maritime trade at their own cost full access to the largest consumer market in human history and at most a limited expectation that participants might open their markets to American goods
