

THE STALKING GAME

WHY PLAY THIS GAME?

Your dog learns to stay with four feet on the ground and only "chase" a moving prey with his eyes. This trains his impulse control and meets his innate canine needs. Well established, you can use the stalking cue as a functional reinforcer, e.g. after a successful recall from chasing a rabbit. Your dog may then continue to "chase" the rabbit with his eyes.

HOW TO PLAY IT?

Inform your dog with the cue "Mouse" or "Stalk" that the game is about to start, wait for a second and then slowly and only for a short moment move a treat in front of your dog's eyes. Mark four feet on the ground and throw the treat in the direction of your last move, so your dog can jump after the treat.

THE AIM OF THE GAME

The goal is that your dog stops and pursues the treat with his eyes. If he's proficient in that, then you can let him stalk longer, you can vary your hand movements: sometimes quick and in a zigzag, sometimes slow and in a curve. Try to immitate the movements of a mouse or a rabbit. Slowly increase distractions.

VARIATIONS

For more variety, combine the game with the 10 Treats Game.

Instead of a treat, you can play the Stalking Game with a ball or a small stuffed animal.

Do you have a cat? Let her stalk too! She'll love it!

TROUBLE SHOOTING

Your dog does not look at the treat but at you

-> Hold your hand relatively close to your dog's eyes.

Your dog snaps and jumps after the treat

-> Do not hold your hand directly in front of your dog's snout, but over his head.
