Hutcheson,2017-06-19 And how he Dined with the Admiral We were cruising off Callao on the Pacific station when it all happened and I daresay there are a good many others who will recollect all about it as well as myself But to explain the matter properly I must go back a little in my dates for instead of Callao at the commencement of my yarn you must read Calabar You see I was in the Porpoise at the time a small old fashioned paddle wheel steamer that had been ordered across from the West Coast of Africa by my lords of the Admiralty to reinforce our squadron in South American waters on account of a war breaking out between Chili and Peru Being a sub on board of her and consequently subject to the authorities that be when the Porpoise was obliged to abandon the fragrant mangrove swamps at the mouth of the Congo river where we had been enjoying ourselves for over a twelvemonth amidst the delights of a deadly miasma that brought on perpetual low fever and as constant a consumption of quinine and bottled beer to counteract its effects I was of course forced to accompany her across the Atlantic and round the Horn to her allotted destination Thence this plain unvarnished tale which is as clear as mud in a ditch although you needn t believe it if you don t like there is no compulsion required to make hungry people eat roast mutton Tom Finch the lieutenant in command of the Porpoise who had got his promotion through the death vacancy of his senior at Cape Coast Castle he was just ahead of me on the roster luckily for him was one of the jolliest fellows I ever sailed with or under since I entered the service and I m sure I ve known a few swabs in my time Unlike some junior officers I could name when suddenly intrusted with the reins of power there was nothing of the martinet about Tom even on the first day he assumed his new rank when a little extra pomposity might have been excusable But no he gave himself no airs or graces whatever He was the same Tom Finch who had chaffed and larked and talked confidence with me in the gunroom now that he trod the quarter deck in all his war paint as I told him somewhat impudently the skipper of HMS Porpoise paddle sloop 6 guns as she was described in the Navy List the same unaffected jovial good natured sailor whom everybody liked men and messmates alike His only weakness was a love for practical joking which he would carry out sometimes perhaps to a rather ticklish extent for his own good that is as he never knowingly did anyone else an injury by it What will you do with your monkey I said when the mail brought in our orders from the commodore on the West Coast for us to sail for Monte Video at once and there await our further instructions which would be sent on from England what will you do with him when we go Take him with me of course answered Tom why shouldn t I Well I don t see any reason against it certainly I replied now that you are captain of the ship and can do as you please without asking anybody s leave Poor Griffin said Tom he did object to Jocko s society that was the reason I always used to keep the dear fellow ashore however as you say Gerald I am my own master and can do as I like now
