Vienna Travel Guide John Williams,Professor of International Relations John Williams,2016-02-27 Vienna is the capital of the Republic of Austria and by far its most populous city with an urban population of 1 7 million and a metropolitan population of 2 4 million It is by far the largest city in Austria and the country s artistic cultural economic and political centre It is known for its high living standards relaxed yet elegant lifestyle and rich musical life The thing about Vienna is that it not only is a large city but that it has always been as the former home of the Habsburg court and its various empires it has always housed a large population and enjoyed a privileged position being home to many artists especially composers including Beethoven Haydn Liszt Mozart and Schubert It was long the largest German speaking city in the world before being surpassed by Berlin The large historic city centre of Vienna filled with monuments to its imperial past is inscribed on the UNESCO World Heritage List Vienna was the host city for the Eurovision Song Contest Europe s largest live televised event in May 2015 Vienna is famous for its coffee culture Let s have a coffee is a very commonly heard phrase because despite incursions by Starbucks and Italian style espresso bars the Kaffeehauskultur is still the traditional way to drink a cup of coffee read the newspaper meet friends or fall in love Spring starts sometime in late March normally it is very brief and summer like weather sets in before the trees have had time to grow back their leaves Summer in Vienna is usually warm Weather in June is moderate and sunny with a light summer windy breeze In July and August there are some hot and humid days where it reaches 35 C 95 F but overall summer in Vienna is pleasant Autumn starts around September although an Indian Summer with warm and sunny days often occurs that month and it gets colder as it approaches November A main disadvantage of the Viennese climate is that it is rather windy and usually overcast during these months Winter in Vienna can be just above 0 C 32 F and drizzling for days on end or just below with dustings of snow that manage to melt again quickly There is the occasional cold snap where it will stay below freezing for a week or two at a time Due to Vienna s relative easterly position in the Central European Time Zone its daylight hours if it s not too gray outside entirely are relatively early during the winter Vienna has a good public transportation system which includes rail commuter rail underground trams trolleys and buses The underground is very efficient and will take you to within a few minutes walk of anywhere you are likely to want to visit The subway alone has the second highest per capita ridership in the world and that is not accounting for the 27 tram lines dozens of train lines or numerous buses The best rail heavy rail and underground transport map is displayed at all OBB stations There are so many lines that maps are normally very simplified and there are no maps of the tram network It can pay to ask or check the best connection ahead of time Major stations are well signed and connections are scheduled to match up if service isn t frequent Avoid driving a car within the central ring if possible While cars are allowed on many of the streets there the streets are narrow and mostly one way They can be confusing for a visitor and parking is extremely limited and restricted during the day Due to the comprehensiveness of the transit system you most likely will not need a car within Vienna except for excursions elsewhere Furthermore it might be a good idea to leave your car at home during rush hours Vienna s streets can become a little clogged in the mornings and early evenings and the drivers are not really known for being especially polite and friendly Vienna travel guide travel guide Vienna Vienna guide Vienna travel book Vienna guidebook Vienna Travel Guide, Austria Liam Richards,2019-12-05 Vienna Travel Guide Austria The History Information The Living is Easy Vienna had a heyday of empire and intrigue like few other cities in 1913 alone Hitler Freud and Stalin all lived here The city is still flecked with palaces museums and opera houses not to mention the world s oldest and grandest zoo in the Palace of Schoenbrunn All this architectural formalwear might make the city seem sterile in comparison to its edgier Danube neighbors Prague or Budapest And maybe it s not as cool as Berlin as romantic as Paris or as cosmopolitan as London but very few cities can combine a bit of each of these qualities as successfully as Vienna does all while being one of the world s most livable cities Austrians revel in the ease of living here from their omnipresent cafes to their near pristine lakes and rivers you can even swim in some parts of the Danube try that in the Hudson Thames or Seine Mix high and low culture Vienna is not just a citadel of high art classical music and fancy twee chocolates yes Mozartballs It also gave the world the EDM drum and bass godfathers Kruder Dorfmeister The only German language number one hit in the U S Falco s Amadeus was an Austrian creation The city runs club nights for students at its historic City Hall and for a while there rock concerts in former gasworks Gasometer Flex which is wedged between a U Bahn tunnel and the Danube canal is known as one of Europe s best nightclubs and hands out both earplugs and sparkling water gratis The city has brought the world Klimt s Kiss but also the art of Hermann Nitsch whose medium of choice is bodily fluids and Manfred Deix a merciless and puerile caricaturist It hosts the exclusive Opera Ball where the rich and famous congregate to waltz and honor the rich and famous But equally sought after is the Life Ball Europe s largest charity event which combines Viennese ball tradition with fancy costume queer balls And of course the Eurovision song contest 2014 was won by Austrian contestant Conchita Wurst a bearded drag queen The fact that a right wing party tried to protest the 2014 Life Ball poster a celebrated David LaChapelle shot of a naked transsexual was viewed as an embarrassment to progressive Austrians who feared the fuss would make them look backward and bigoted to the rest of the world
