to how Deaf people have taken an increasingly greater role in influencing their own futures and places in society In published histories we see the longstanding conflicts through the centuries that pertain to sign language and spoken communication philosophies as well as the contributions of the individuals who advocated alternative strategies for teaching deaf children More recently investigators have recognized the need for a diverse approach to language and language learning Advances in technology cognitive science linguistics and the social sciences have alternately led and followed changes in theory and practice resulting in a changing landscape for deaf and hard of hearing individuals and those connected to them This second volume of the The Oxford Handbook of Deaf Studies Language and Education 2003 picks up where that first landmark volume left off describing those advances and offering readers the opportunity to understand the current status of research in the field while recognizing the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead In Volume 2 an international group of contributing experts provide state of the art summaries intended for students practitioners and researchers Not only does it describe where we are it helps to chart courses for the future

Early Reading Instruction is a comprehensive analysis of the research evidence from early writing systems to computer models of reading In this book Diane McGuinness provides an innovative solution to the reading war the century old debate over the efficacy of phonics sound based versus whole word meaning based methods She has developed a prototype a set of elements that are critical to the success of a reading method McGuinness shows that all writing systems without exception are based on a sound unit in the language This fact and other findings by paleographers provides a platform for the prototype Other elements of the prototype are based on modern research For example observational studies in the classroom show that time spent on three activities strongly predicts reading success learning phoneme symbol correspondences practice at blending and segmenting phonemes in words and copying writing words phrases and sentences Most so called literacy activities have no effect and some like sight word memorization have a strongly negative effect The National Reading Panel 2000 summarized the research on reading methods after screening out thousands of studies that failed to meet minimum scientific standards In an in depth analysis of this evidence McGuinness shows that the most successful methods children reading a year or more above age norms include all the elements in the prototype Finally she argues because phonics type methods are consistently shown to be superior to whole word methods in studies dating back to the 1960s it makes no sense to continue this line of research The most urgent question for future research is how to get the most effective phonics programs into the classroom
