Think German I:

Thinking German Translation Margaret Rogers, Michael White, Michael Loughridge, Ian Higgins, Sándor Hervej, 2020-04-22 Thinking German Translation is a comprehensive practical course in translation for advanced undergraduate students of German and postgraduate students embarking on Master's translation programmes. Now in its third edition, this course focuses on translation as a decision-making process covering all stages of the translation process from research to the rewriting of the source text in the language of translation to the final revision process. This third edition brings the course up to date, referencing relevant research sources in Translation Studies and technological developments as appropriate and balancing the coverage of subject matter with examples and varied exercises in a wide range of genres from both literary and specialised material. All chapters from the second edition have been extensively revised and in many cases restructured; new chapters have been added, literary translation research and resources as well as suggestions for further reading. Offering around 50 practical exercises, the course features material from a wide range of sources including business, economics and politics, advertising, marketing and consumer texts, tourism, science and engineering, modern literary texts and popular song, the literary canon including poetry. A variety of translation issues are addressed among them: cultural differences, genre conventions, the difficult concept of equivalence as well as some of the key differences between English and German linguistic and textual features. Thinking German Translation is essential reading for all students seriously interested in improving their translation skills. It is also an excellent foundation for those considering a career in translation. A Tutor's Handbook offers comments and notes on the exercises for each chapter, including not only translations but also a range of other tasks as well as some specimen answers. Outlook Alfred Emanuel Smith, Francis Walton, 1917 Postmetaphysical Thinking Jürgen Habermas, 1992 Considers the nature and future of philosophy in a post-metaphysical age. In the first part Habermas examines the legacy of Kant and assesses some recent attempts to return to metaphysical modes of thought. In the second part he develops and defends the concepts of communicative reason. Ready to Learn Stanley Goldberg, 2005-02-01 Do you tell your preschooler one thing and they do the opposite? Are they easily distracted or unable to focus? If you suspect that your child may have a learning problem or if you simply want to help them be ready, here is the book to read before he or she enters the school system: a realistic, humorous and kind-hearted guide to helping your little one learn. In Ready to Learn, Stan Goldberg draws on thirty years of clinical experience and personal experience as the father of two kids with learning differences to provide an easy-to-use guide to helping children overcome any problems and improve their learning skills. Illustrating his discussion with many anecdotes about teaching both his own children and children in his private practice, Goldberg walks readers through the process of learning and shows how to identify a learning problem. He focuses on four major areas: problems of attention, understanding, storage and retrieval, presenting each problem through the eyes of the child in everyday terms that a parent can understand He looks at seven down to earth strategies that will allow you to create the best plan to help your child overcome their problem and he provides many handy charts and figures that will help you organize your efforts The book also includes a list of useful web sites and a chart of development milestones outlining motor skills cognitive sensory skills and language and social skills Written in a style that blends humor insightful stories and practical experience Ready to Learn provides a flexible time tested approach using step by step strategies that will help your preschoolers become confident and love learning before they enter the classroom
