Space - Structure - Economy Ulrich Blum, 2007 August Loesch 1906 1945 was one of the classic scholars of spatial economic theory His most important work The Spatial Order of the Economy translated into English in 1954 under the slightly misleading title The Economics of Location became internationally recognized as an important base for regional science In order to mark the centenary of his birthday nearly 30 international authors have contributed to this volume From different perspectives the contributors review Loesch's role as creator of the general theory of socio-economic development in space. Additionally, several of his contributions to other fields of economic research are critically evaluated. Various extensions of Loesch's concept of hexagonal market areas are presented and new research results are considered such as the relevance of different types of economic flows and flow routes for achieving a stable system of spatial structure. The book also reviews Loesch's theoretical approach from the perspective of the New Economic Geography and discusses the effects of catastrophic dynamic forces as induced for example by innovation. The final part of the book conveys a more personal view of August Loesch in particular his moral strength during the Third Reich and on his relationship to his home town of Reconfiguring Identities and Building Territories in India and South Africa Philippe Gervais-Lambony, Frédéric Landy, Sophie Oldfield, 2005. Published in association with Centre de Sciences Humaines, New Delhi. Questions of territory, space and identity are critically important in the international geopolitical context as well as central to contemporary research in the social sciences. Processes connected with globalization have reconfigured identities and territories at multiple scales, connecting and disconnecting places in complex ways and re-enforcing old while producing new forms of segregation and polarisation. Global processes meet the complex and locally specific South African and Indian geographies of inequality expressed at national, regional and local scale. In the South African case a political imperative to transform the legacies of racial inequality from colonial and apartheid rule underscores the centrality of racial identities. However racial discourse and differentiation embodies and at times masks a complex mix of place-based gender, class and cultural identities expressed in a multi-scalar politics of territory. Over 50 years into independent rule Indian identity politics continues to build to a large extent on caste and the intricate ways in which caste affiliation merges with religious, socio-economic, political and place-based identities. In both contexts the politics of identity and territory simultaneously unify and divide. The spaces, territories and identities re-produced in the complex contexts in which the global, national, regional and local meet lie at the heart of the research from which the papers in this book have been generated. The research investigated the reconfiguration of Indian and South African identities and territories through dialogue primarily between geographers but also other social scientists from India, South Africa and France.
