How to Teach Decision-making Skills to Elementary and Secondary Students William J. Stewart, 1988

Teacher Decision-Making in the Classroom John Eggleston, 2018-10-03 Making decisions is one of the main activities of the teacher's work. Considered or apparently unconsidered, these decisions significantly affect the lives of all who work in classrooms, both children and the teachers themselves. Originally published in 1979, the aim of this collection of papers was to achieve greater understanding of classroom decision making and its consequences, to identify and map existing knowledge, and to indicate where it might be augmented. The contributors were researchers and teachers from schools, universities, and colleges at the time, and they examine the process of teacher decision making from sociological, psychological, economic, and other perspectives. The book includes a detailed analysis of life in the classroom from a phenomenological perspective, explorations based on microeconomic techniques, and structural perspectives on the role of the teacher in the school. The concluding papers examine the possibilities for social change given the constraints on the work of the teacher.

Decision Making for Educational Leaders Bob L. Johnson Jr., Sharon D. Kruse, 2012-02-01 Why another book on decision making? In this increasingly complex world, there are many tensions inherent in the daily practice of school leaders. This book illuminates these tensions and acknowledges the reality that there are already multiple approaches to decision making in any school. The authors offer a guide to integrate the influences of school and community members, as well as data and organizational context, into the decision making process. They focus on underexamined dimensions of decision making, including: 1. the art of theory use, 2. organizational context, 3. political dynamics, 4. inferential leaps and causal assumptions, 5. the role of intuition, 6. data-driven decision making, 7. the role of emotions and affect, and 8. making the tough decision. Dispositions that enhance success are highlighted. These ideas will empower school principals, superintendents, and other leaders to approach with confidence the decisions they are called on to make.

Teaching Decision Making To Adolescents Jonathan Baron, Rex V. Brown, 2012-11-12 This book describes a variety of programs firmly based in psychological theory and modern decision analysis that are suitable for teaching adolescents how to improve both their own decision making skills and their understanding of the decision making of others. Providing practical advice as well as theoretical analysis, this volume addresses general questions such as the nature and rationale of the enterprise, its implementation, and its evaluation. Relevant to several current adolescent problems, including drug abuse, this is an excellent source, either as research, new curriculum, or enrichment of old curriculum.

Data-based Decision Making in Education Kim Schildkamp, Mei Kuin Lai, Lorna Earl, 2012-09-18 In a context where schools are held more and more accountable for the education they provide, data-based decision making has become increasingly important. This book brings together scholars from several countries to examine data-based decision making. Data-based decision making in this book refers to making decisions based on a broad range of evidence, such as scores on students' assessments, classroom observations, etc. This book supports policy makers, people working with schools researchers and school leaders and teachers in the use of data by bringing together the current research conducted on data use across multiple countries into a single volume Some of these studies are best practice studies where effective data use has led to improvements in student learning Others provide insight into challenges in both policy and practice environments Each of them draws on research and literature in the field

Decision-Making: What Does It Have to Do with My Teaching? Yi-Min Huang, Matt Eliot, Jennifer Turns, Emma Rose, Jessica Yellin, 2007 Engineering education can be thought of as a complex design activity where educators create a range of teaching artifacts including course curricula classroom policies lecture notes exams and timelines for student group projects In order to design such artifacts engineering faculty must make a series of teaching decisions each of which can impact their students learning and engagement with course activities Given the importance of decision making in engineering education the authors hope that by beginning to characterize engineering educator decisions educators will gain a greater awareness of their decision making by recognizing characterizing and anticipating decision points Thus the initial research questions driving this study were 1 What aspects of engineering educators decision making processes are prominent during their participation in the instructional development process and 2 How can engineering educators make more effective decisions This exploratory study looks at engineering faculty decisions as expressed during the instructional development process Curriculum-based Evaluation Kenneth W. Howell,Victor Nolet,2000 This book presents clear and functional techniques for deciding what students with learning disabilities should be taught and how This book can also function as a tool to assist pre service teachers students with deciding how to teach and what to teach to regular non special education children Instructional Decision-making Thomas M. Sherman,1980 Exploring classroom assessment practices and teacher decision-making Dennis Alonzo,Chris Davison,Chris Ann Harrison,2023-05-25 Teacher Decision Making in Reading Instruction With Choices and Mandates Michelle Ciminelli,2011 In this qualitative research study I attempted to understand and describe what happens when elementary school teachers have a choice of instructional methods and materials for teaching reading as well as decisions made when given a mandated reading program In particular I wished to discover the choices educational professionals make in reading instruction throughout the year and the processes of those choices Additionally I examined the similarities and differences in the decisions educational professional make about instructional reading programs across the year among various populations such as veteran vs novice teachers various grade levels looping vs non looping team teachers and teachers vs principal Finally I wanted to explore the factors that influenced educators decision making processes Theories of social constructivism decision making and reflective practice guided the design and methodology for the study This study was conducted over a ten month period in a rural elementary school Participants included nine kindergarten through fourth grade teachers the school principal and the district curriculum specialist Data for this study were collected through multiple interviews and field observations as well as artifacts related to reading programs and instructional practices The data were analyzed through open axial and selective coding phases Creswell 2007 As became evident early in the study and increasingly so as data collection and analysis progressed teacher decision making differed depending on whether or not participants had choice in how to teach reading The data revealed several factors that influenced teacher decision making when allowed choice in reading instruction including student needs colleagues the need for support and guidance professional development and time constraints With the mandated program teacher decision making was influenced by training a process of modifications and fear and risk taking I present two models of decision making one represents decision making with choice and the other represents decision making with a mandated program Several implications for administrators professional development and teacher education were drawn from the findings of this study in regard to assisting teachers in the implementation of reading instruction Transforming Teaching and Learning

Through Data-driven Decision Making Ellen Beth Mandinach, Sharnell S. Jackson, 2016 Gathering data and using it to inform instruction is a requirement for many schools yet educators are not necessarily formally trained in how to do it This book helps bridge the gap between classroom practice and the principles of educational psychology Teachers will find cutting edge advances in research and theory on human learning and teaching in an easily understood and transferable format The text s integrated model shows teachers school leaders and district administrators how to establish a data culture and transform quantitative and qualitative data into actionable knowledge based on assessment statistics instructional and differentiated psychology and classroom management

Teacher Decision Making Pamela Sue Nesselrodt, 1989 Decision Making in Educational Leadership Stephanie Chitpin, Colin W. Evers, 2014-06-05 The increased focus on raising standards in education requires leaders to engage in complex decision making about teacher assessment mandated accountability measures and the collection and use of large amounts of data Showcasing exemplary practices of school and district administrators Decision Making in Educational Leadership covers issues concerning the role of emotion ethical and legal ramifications the use of data and complexity in decision making Chapter authors in this research based volume explore what administrators and school leaders actually know about educational problems how they draw upon and revise theories of action for responding to problems and which theories are tenable in educational decision making This important resource provides a broad and international perspective on effective models and methods of educational decision making and shares valuable knowledge about how theory can be translated into practice in a variety of school settings
