Strange Relations, 1974 Education for Tomorrow Michael Risku, Letitia Harding, 2013-02-11 Education for Tomorrow A Biocentric Student Focused Approach to Education Reform Michael Risku University of the Incarnate Word USA and Letitia Harding University of the Incarnate Word USA There are many books on the market which discuss indigenous ways of knowing and bemoan western society's seeming lack of interest in anything other than scientific fact based knowledge Equally plentiful are the writings of critical theorists who consider today's public education system to be divisive and manipulated by those in power to ensure that their children have the educational advantages needed to maintain the elite hierarchical status quo Education for Tomorrow is unique in that it brings both of these approaches together first by examining the ways that indigenous people and women of all cultures acquire and pass on knowledge and the deleterious effects that enforced Eurocentric systems have had on that process The authors then turn to public schools to explore the influences both good and bad that today's programs have on the distribution of opportunities afforded to all children in the United States Finally they offer suggestions for a revolutionary education system which highlights the need for all students to have the encouragement and freedom to look critically and rationally at their lives and at their relationship with the natural world This can be achieved by looking back to the pedagogical methods of our indigenous ancestors and forward to a time when all children regardless of ethnic or socio economic heritage are taught in such a way that every aspect of their lives is addressed nurtured valued and enhanced

Defoe's Major Fiction Elizabeth R. Napier, 2016-01-28 This book focuses on the pervasive concern with narrativity and self construction that marks Defoe's first person fictional narratives Defoe's fictions focus obsessively and elaborately on the act of storytelling not only in his creation of idiosyncratic voices preoccupied with the telling and often the concealing of their own life stories but also in his narrators repeated aversion to other untold stories that compete for attention with their own Defoe's narratives raise profound questions about selfhood and agency as well as demonstrate competing attitudes about narration in his fictive worlds His canon exhibits a broad range of first person fictional accounts from pseudo memoir A Journal of the Plague Year Memoirs of a Cavalier to criminal autobiography Moll Flanders to confession Roxana and the narrators of these accounts secretive compulsive fractive exhibit an array of resistances to the telling of their life stories Such experiments with narration evince Defoe's deep involvement in projects of self description and delineation as he interrogates the boundaries of the self and dramatizes the arduousness of self accounting Defoe's fictions are emphatically consciousness centered and the significance of such a focus to the development of the novel is patently as great as is his realistic style Defoe's narrative project in fact challenges current views on the moment at which inwardness and interiority begin as Lukacs argued to comprise the subject matter of the novel implicitly attributing to identity and consciousness a place of signal and complex importance in the new genre
