The Prevention Of Genocide:

The Prevention and Intervention of Genocide Samuel Totten, 2008-03-31 This volume is comprised of over 2 300 annotations on a wide array of issues and topics germane to the subject of preventing the atrocities of genocide and managing these conflicts when they do arise Samuel Totten brings together in one comprehensive collection the research and findings in various fields such as political science sociology history and psychology to enable specialists in genocide studies peace studies and conflict resolution to benefit from the insights of a diverse range of scholars and foster an understanding of how the various components of genocide studies connect Among the topics included are key conventions international treaties and covenants genocide early warning signals and forecasting risk data bases sanctions peacekeeping missions conflict resolution the International Criminal Court realpolitik vis vis the issue of genocide prevention and intervention key non governmental agencies key governmental and UN bodies working on these important issues In addition to the annotations Totten frames the bibliography with a major essay that introduces the reader to the subject of prevention and intervention of genocide raising a host of critical issues regarding the strengths weaknesses and limitations of various approaches germane to issues of managing these conflicts

Preventing Genocide Genocide Prevention Task Force, 2008 Asserts that genocide is preventable and that making progress toward doing so begins with leadership and political will Provides 34 recommendations starting with the need for high level attention standing institutional mechanisms and strong international partnerships to respond to potential genocidal situations when they arise Lays out a comprehensive approach recommending improved early warning mechanisms early action to prevent crises timely diplomatic responses to emerging crises greater preparedness to employ military options and action to strengthen global norms and institutions

Education about the Holocaust and preventing genocide UNESCO, 2017-05-08 Impediments to the Prevention and Intervention of Genocide Samuel Totten, 2013-01-23 Academics NGOs the United Nations and individual nations are focused on the prevention and intervention of genocide Traditionally missions to prevent or intervene in genocide have been sporadic and under resourced The contributors to this volume consider some of the major stumbling blocks to the avoidance of genocide Bartrop and Totten argue that realpolitik is the major impediment to the elimination of genocide Campbell examines the lack of political will to confront genocide and Theriault describes how denial becomes an obstacle to intervention against genocide Loyle and Davenport discuss how intervention is impeded by a lack of reliable data on genocide violence and Macgregor presents an overview of the influence of the media Totten examines how the UN Convention on Genocide actually impedes anti genocide efforts and how the institutional configuration of the UN is itself often a stumbling block Addressing an issue that is often overlooked Travis examines the impact of global arms trade on genocide Finally Hiebert examines how international criminal prosecution of atrocities can impede preventive efforts and Hirsch provides an analysis of the strengths weaknesses and effectiveness of major international and national prescriptions developed over the last decade The result is a distinguished addition to Transaction's prestigious Genocide Studies series Preventing Mass Atrocities Barbara Harff, Ted Robert Gurr, 2018-10-10 What can be done to warn about and organize political action to prevent genocide and mass atrocities The international contributors to this volume are either experts or practitioners often both who have contributed in substantial ways to analyzing high risk situations recommending preventive policies and actions and in several instances helping to organize remedial actions Whereas current literature on the prevention of genocide is theoretically well grounded this book explores what can be done and has been done in real world situations Recommendations and actions are rooted in a generation of experience based on solid historical comparative and empirical research and with a grounding in quantitative methods This volume examines historical cases to understand the general causes and processes of mass violence and genocide and engages with ongoing genocidal crises including Darfur and Syria as well as other forms of related violence such as terrorism and civil conflict It will be key reading for all students and scholars of genocide war and conflict studies human security and security studies in general

The Prevention of Genocide Leo Kuper, Preventing Genocide David A. Hamburg, 2015-11-17 Genocide has been called a problem from hell and despite vehement declarations of never again it's a problem that continues to plague the world From the beginning of history to the most recent massacres in Bosnia Rwanda and Darfur genocide defies resolution And given today's worldwide access to highly lethal weapons and advanced communications technology facilitating incitement to hate we can expect to see this problem grow It is often claimed that genocide occurs without warning taking both local and global communities by surprise Yet as David Hamburg convincingly shows we have had long term advance knowledge of most modern genocides dating back to the early 20th century Armenian tragedy in Turkey and before In this book Dr Hamburg applies a groundbreaking new perspective the medical model of prevention to the scourge of genocide in the world Preventing genocide is not only possible Dr Hamburg contends but essential given its high cost in lives human rights and international security Here he maps out numerous practical steps to recognise genocidal conflicts early and stem their tides of violence before they become acute He also outlines several institutions in place and programs underway at the UN EU and NATO devoted to preventing future genocides before they erupt He draws lessons both from missed opportunities and successful experiences and makes many constructive suggestions about strengthening international institutions governments and NGOs for this purpose

The Prevention and Intervention of Genocide Samuel Totten, 2008 Over the last twenty years the world has witnessed four major genocides There was the genocide in Iraq 1988 in Rwanda 1994 in Srebrenica 1995 and in Darfur 2003 and continuing Most observers agree there is an urgent need to assess the international community's efforts to prevent genocide and to intervene once a genocide is under way in an effective and timely manner This volume the latest in a widely respected series on the subject of genocide provides an overview of a host of issues germane to this task The book begins with a cogent discussion of the issues of prevention and intervention during the Cold War years The second chapter discusses the abject failures and moderate though in some cases highly controversial successes at prevention and intervention carried out in the 1990s and early 2000s Further chapters examine latest efforts to develop an effective genocide early warning system and examine the complexity of and barriers to prevention The pros and cons of sanctions and the problems of enforcement and evaluation their effectiveness are then discussed Conflicts between state sovereignty and the protection of threatened populations are examined both in historical context and by incorporating the latest thinking Later chapters treat the issue of intervention why and how it has met with only limited success Concentrating on Rwanda and Srebrenica chapter 8 discusses various peace operations that were abject failures and those that were moderately successful The concept of an anti genocide regime is examined in terms of progress in developing such a regime as well as what the international community must do in order to implement it Chapters discuss key issues related to post genocidal periods those that need to be addressed in order to establish stability in a wounded land and populace as well as to prevent future genocides The final chapter asks whether bringing perpetrators to justice has any impact in breaking impunity ensuring deterrence and bringing about reconciliation The contributors to the volume are all noted scholars some of whom specialize in the study of genocide and others who specialize in such areas as early warning peacekeeping and sanctions

Impediments to the Prevention and Intervention of Genocide Samuel Totten, 2017-09-08 Academics NGOs the United Nations and individual nations are focused on the prevention and intervention of genocide Traditionally missions to prevent or intervene in genocide have been sporadic and under resourced The contributors to this volume consider some of the major stumbling blocks to the avoidance of genocide Bartrop and Totten argue that realpolitik is the major impediment to the elimination of genocide Campbell examines the lack of political will to confront genocide and Theriault describes how denial becomes an obstacle to intervention against genocide Loyle and Davenport discuss how intervention is impeded by a lack of reliable data on genocide violence and Macgregor presents an overview of the influence of the media Totten examines how the UN Convention on Genocide actually impedes anti genocide efforts and how the institutional configuration of the UN is itself often a stumbling block Addressing an issue that is often overlooked Travis examines the impact of global arms trade on genocide Finally Hiebert examines how international criminal prosecution of atrocities can impede preventive efforts and Hirsch provides an analysis of the strengths weaknesses and effectiveness of major international and national prescriptions developed over the last decade The result is a distinguished addition to Transaction s prestigious Genocide Studies series

Preventing Genocide and Mass Killing William Schabas, 2006 The prevention of genocide and mass killing is arguably the greatest moral imperative resting on the United Nations UN The Genocide Convention was one of the first human rights instruments to be adopted by the UN along with the Universal Declaration on Human Rights However in the immediate post Second World War climate it was assumed that at least in peacetime what states did to their own peoples within their own frontiers was largely their own business There has been considerable progress since then The Outcome Document adopted at the UN summit in September 2005 underlines the responsibility of the international community to protect threatened populations a responsibility to be met through peaceful means but also if these prove inadequate by taking collective action through the UN Security Council Further it reaffirms the principle that protecting minority rights contributes to states stability and cultural diversity Genocide and Minorities: Preventing the Preventable John Packer, Eric Friberg, 2004-04-07 The International Day of Reflection on the Genocide in Rwanda 7 April 2004 marks 10 years since the international community failed to prevent the preventable genocide It was preventable because it had been foreseen in the August 1993 report 1 of the United Nations UN Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial summary or arbitrary executions Similarly had existing international standards been applied they may have met many of the concerns held by both the majority and minority However these standards were not implemented in Rwanda and the international community lacked the political will to heed the available warning Without urgent change the genocide of minorities will happen again An institutional mechanism is needed to address the root causes of such situations and to bring them to the attention of the Security Council before military intervention is the sole remaining option The Secretary General s call to move the UN from a culture of reaction to a culture of prevention is a welcome development 2 His more recent calls to consider the establishment of new mechanisms show his appreciation that such a cultural transformation requires institutional development and new operational arrangements In November 2003 the Secretary General appointed a High Level Panel to recommend measures to ensure effective collective action on peace and security This briefing outlines how to enhance the UN s capacity to address the interconnected issues of the protection of minorities and the prevention of violent conflict In concurrence with the Secretary General s recent suggestions 3 new mechanisms must be created and existing capacities must be enhanced New mechanisms should include the establishment of a Special Representative of the Secretary General on Minorities and the Prevention of Genocide and the creation of an independent expert committee to supervise compliance with the UN Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide Genocide Convention 4 Regarding the enhancement of capacities information gathering and analysis within the UN Secretariat in New York and among the specialized agencies needs to be improved with the strengthening of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights OHCHR

Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, Christian Tams, Lars Berster, Björn Schiffbauer, 2014-12-01 The 1948 UN Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide Genocide Convention has a special standing in international law and international politics For 60 years the crime of genocide has been recognised as the most horrendous crime in international law famously designated the crime of crimes On the occasion of the 60th anniversary of its adoption the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights stated that genocide is the ultimate form of discrimination In the same context the chief prosecutor of the International Criminal Court described the Genocide Convention as a visionary and founding text for the Court The Convention has as such influenced the subsequent development of many different areas of international law For example the

1951 Advisory Opinion on the Genocide Convention enabled the International Court of Justice to shape the modern regime of reservations to treaties More recently the prohibition against genocide has become a crucial pillar of the regime of international criminal law developing since the 1990s with genocide being one of the core crimes falling under the jurisdiction of the UN ad hoc tribunals the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia and the permanent International Criminal Court In this work the 19 provisions of the Convention are analysed article by article with abundant references to state practice and case law

How to Prevent Genocide John G. Heidenrich, 2001-04-30 Genocide the deliberate destruction usually through mass murder of an ethnic racial or religious group is the ultimate crime against humanity Drawing upon a wide variety of disciplines this study assesses ways to prevent this crime While most books about genocide focus on the history of a particular event such as the Holocaust or compare case studies to derive empirical theories this book outlines many practical aspects of genocide prevention Heidenrich covers a broad spectrum of expert opinions from Stanley Hoffmann to Henry Kissinger as well as political opinions regarding genocide that range from Ronald Reagan to Bill Clinton Topics include international law humanitarian intervention early warning measures and the effectiveness of such methods as diplomacy economic pressure and nonviolent resistance Preventing genocide in a tense socio political environment is no easy task but such prevention is easier and more cost effective than trying to put an end to genocide once it is already occurring

Preventing Genocide and the Responsibility to Protect Rachel Davis, 2008 The responsibilities of governments to protect their citizens has gained increasing acceptance in policy and academic circles and within the United Nations UN itself over the past two decades This was again highlighted at the United Nations 2005 World Summit during which the international community affirmed the principle of the responsibility to protect RtoP citizens The policy advisory group meeting on which this report is based focused on six African Asian and European case studies These highlight major and inter related issues of concern regarding effective and timely international responses to situations in which populations were threatened by genocide war crimes ethnic cleansing or crimes against humanity

Confronting Evil James Waller, 2016-05-27 While it is true that genocide prevention is not what tends to land on the front pages of national newspapers today it is what prevents the worst headlines from ever being made Despite the post Holocaust consensus that Never Again would the world allow civilians to be victims of genocide the reality is closer to Again and Again As many as 170 million civilians across the world were victims of genocide and mass atrocity in the 20th century Now that we have entered the 21st century little light has been brought to that darkness as civilians still find themselves under brutal attack in South Sudan Burma Syria the Central African Republic Burundi Iraq and a score of other countries in the world beset by state fragility and extremist identity politics Drawing on over two decades of primary research and scholarship from a wide range of disciplinary perspectives Confronting Evil Engaging Our Responsibility to Prevent Genocide is grounded in the belief that preventing mass atrocity is an achievable goal but only if we have the collective will to do so This groundbreaking book from one of the foremost leaders in the field presents a fascinating continuum of research informed strategies to prevent genocide from ever taking place to prevent further atrocities once genocide is occurring and to prevent future atrocities once a society has begun to rebuild after genocide With remarkable insight Dr James Waller challenges each of us to accept our responsibilities as global citizens in whichever role and place we find ourselves and to think critically about one of the world's most pressing human rights issues in which there are no sidelines only sides We Charge Genocide Civil Rights Congress (U.S.),1952 Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity Dinah Shelton,2005 This volume covering entries T Z presents information on those acts that fall within the definitions developed over the past century of crimes under international law war crimes genocide and crimes against humanity United Nations Handbook ,2018 The UN genocide convention Tobias Henze,2013-02-05 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2011 in the subject Politics Topic International Organisations grade 8 0 Maastricht University language English abstract The hybrid term genocide was modeled by Raphael Lemkin and used for the first time in his book Axis Rule in Occupied Europe Laws of Occupation Analysis of Government Proposals for Redress 1944 and sought to describe the cruelties and mass murdering committed by the Nazis in the Second World War Lemkin a Polish lawyer who himself was persecuted by the Nazi system thereby created a new term and a new conception for the destruction of a nation or of an ethnic group Lemkin 1944 p 79 A term that henceforward was used in order to depict the crime of crimes Schabas 2008a p 4 crimes that could not have been named before Genocide in Our Time Michael N. Dobkowski,Isidor Wallimann,1992 With sections on the Holocaust as a unique event the Armenian genocide the Ukrainian famine genocide and modern war and early warning intervention and Prevention of genocide
