was in your body What you searched for outside was inside you that is why you did not find it Had you smelled your own navel you would not have suffered a miserable lot Most of us are like the musk deer We seek the fragrance of joy the musk of mirth everywhere outside ourselves We hop from one object to another until we are disillusioned We then jump off the cliff of excitement into the valley of depression and sorrow The fountain of joy healing wisdom infinite strength glory and greatness is hidden in the deep caves of our consciousness Our search for it outside only delays and disappoints us Whatever we seek outside is hidden within us Turn your gaze and mind within all your search for everything will end within The Condensed Distribution of Lives Ike Jeanes,2012-08 Distribution of Lives provides a completely new method for viewing and understanding income distribution from bottom to top It illustrates the profound adverse impact of maldistribution on individuals and the economy as a whole If you ever needed ammunition to support your case that equitable income distributions are essential for our families for our friends for our nation for our world you will find it here The prevailing economic theories that financial and monetary manipulations can be corrective in spite of profound maldistribution are proven wrong here It is perilous to presuppose that such theories can produce a thriving economy when the majority have plainly been harmed to benefit the few This is a book about answers reasons and demonstrations The unabridged Distribution of Lives is 345 pages excluding appendix and endnotes the condensed version 195 pages The condensed version does not include Chapters 4 5 7 8 and 9 which deal primarily with economics and U S history Otherwise the two are identical

Social Stratification in an Aging Society with Low Fertility Sawako Shirahase,2022-08-31 This edited book empirically discusses stratification in contemporary Japanese society It is unique for its examination of social inequality in relation to declining fertility and an aging population Japan is the most aged society in the world according to the Statistics Bureau of Japan people who are aged 65 and above comprised 29.1% of the country's total population in 2021 Meanwhile the fertility rate has continuously declined since the mid 1970s Japan experienced a dramatic change in its demographic structure in a short period of time Such fast change could be a major factor that generated social stratification In her industrialization Japan was thought to share a pattern of social stratification similar to that of developed European and North American countries but with a low degree of socio economic inequality and a high degree of homogeneity There is no clear support for this description of Japan although the country does share a pattern and degree of social stratification similar to that observed in Europe and North America The social stratification theory has been developed in close relationship to the labor market however it is necessary to further examine the social stratification of very aged societies in which a substantial number of the population namely retired persons no longer have any ties to the labor market In this book the contributors explore the pattern of social stratification at three life stages young middle aged and elderly Included are discussions of various aspects of stratification such as education work wealth marriage family gender generation and social attitudes
