The White Peacock D H Lawrence,2020-03-12 I stood watching the shadowy fish slide through the gloom of the mill pond They were grey descendants of the silvery things that had darted away from the monks in the young days when the valley was lusty The whole place was gathered in the musing of old age The thick piled trees on the far shore were too dark and sober to dally with the sun the weeds stood crowded and motionless Not even a little wind flickered the willows of the islets The water lay softly intensely still Only the thin stream falling through the mill race murmured to itself of the tumult of life which had once quickened the valley I was almost startled into the water from my perch on the alder roots by a voice saying Well what is there to look at My friend was a young farmer stoutly built brown eyed with a naturally fair skin burned dark and freckled in patches He laughed seeing me start and looked down at me with lazy curiosity I was thinking the place seemed old brooding over its past He looked at me with a lazy indulgent smile and lay down on his back on the bank saying It s all right for a doss here
