The Writer And Religion:

The Writer and Religion William H. Gass, Lorin Cuoco, 2000 Every significant religious system stands upon a sacred text This text is indeed its temple Inside its heroes and their history are enshrined Although leaders of varying degrees of divinity are always involved in the creation of a new sect they usually have short lives often come to bad ends and their influence diluted by disciples soon disappears as water does in sand What the leader leaves behind is Mein Kampf or its equivalent his testament Occasionally by the indolent an existent text is chosen or a compilation selected a golden treasury From time to time other writings may be dubbed divine as though knighted This is not a simple social thing however It is more important than a nation adding to its territories Any addition to the divine canon will approve proscribe or admit new thoughts new practices and in consequence elevate different people to positions of privilege and power William H Gass These essays and panel discussions made up The Writer and Religion Conference held at Washington University in St Louis The six essays all by writers of international stature were followed by panel discussions with audience participation

The Religion Writers and the Secular Press Elizabeth E. Brenner, 1970 Aesthetics and Analysis in Writing on Religion Daniel Gold, 2003-06-10 This book addresses a fundamental dilemma in religious studies Exploring the tension between humanistic and social scientific approaches to thinking and writing about religion Daniel Gold develops a line of argument that begins with the aesthetics of academic writing in the field He shows that successful writers on religion employ characteristic aesthetic strategies in communicating their visions of human truths Gold examines these strategies with regard to epistemology and to the study of religion as a collective endeavor

The Writer's Masterplan Ritesh Martawar, 2025-11-11 The Writer's Masterplan is a psychological teardown of belief identity and the systems that shape human thought It dismantles the invisible architecture behind religion nationalism morality culture and the stories we inherit without consent It's not a self help book It's not a motivational sermon It's a confrontation A mirror that doesn't flatter This book digs through philosophy neuroscience history and real social behavior to show how ideas control people how narratives become prisons and how freedom begins only when you learn to think without borrowed scripts It challenges obedience It questions certainty It forces the reader to face the uncomfortable truth most of what we defend as truth is just habit The Writer's Masterplan doesn't tell you what to believe It shows you how belief is built how it evolves and how it manipulates It's for people who are done accepting answers and are finally ready to ask better questions If you're scared of discomfort skip this book If you're ready to unlearn turn the page
