

10 KEY FINANCE SKILLS EVERY MANAGER AND EXECUTIVE NEEDS

All senior executives are finding that they need some financial know-how if they want to deliver value to their shareholders in today's competitive business world. While key financial skills are not difficult to learn; it is vital that you make an effort to improve your techniques and approach if you want to succeed well into the future and blow the competition out of the water. This infographic will point you in the right direction.

Budget preparation

As a senior executive or manager, it is essential that you learn how to prepare budgets effectively for both your business and the client.

Variance analysis

There are always going to be variables in any financial plan, and you need to identify and consider them to ensure you don't run out of money when you need it most.

Financial analysis

Managers often have to present and defend capital investments and strategic initiatives designed to improve operational and financial performance. The financial evaluation of these projects is a key element of the approval process.

Understanding basic financial statements

You should become familiar with the basic financial statements prepared for clients and shareholders, and you should understand what information is presented in each report.

Using technology

We live in the digital age, and so it is sensible to identify the best software and technology before implementing it and using it to your advantage.

Decisiveness

You need to work on your ability to make informed decisions quickly if you want to improve your finance skills and get the best outcomes every time.

Persuasiveness

Business owners and managers dealing with finance will need to learn how to bring other people around to their point of view. That could become integral in raising revenues.

Communication

Without impeccable communication skills, those dealing with finance might struggle to instill a feeling of trust and support in clients and colleagues.

Mathematics

While all professionals will have access to calculators and software programs these days, an understanding of the fundamentals of mathematics is critical.

Confidence

You need the confidence to present your financial ideas to shareholders and clients in a way that will impress and gain their approval.
