The Silent Enemy:

Embattled Shadows Peter Morris, 1978 Embattled Shadows is the first and only history of Canadian film making in the years before the establishment of the National Film Board of Canada in 1939 It begins with an entertaining account of the travelling showmen who brought the movies to large and small communities across the country and discusses the films produced in Canada before World War I In the atmosphere of heightened nationalism during and after the war there was a determined attempt to establish a film industry Peter Morris chronicles its occasional successes while at the same time examining the reasons behind its ultimate failure using the colourful career of the independent producer Ernest Shipman Ten Percent Ernie as a particular reference He goes on to describe the establishment and eventual collapse of both the federal and Ontario governments Motion Picture Bureaus By the Thirties with the connivance of the Canadian government Canadian feature film production had deteriorated to the point of turning out quota films from the Hollywood mould

Magnet Memories - The Story of a Secret Series 1977-1987 Nick Goodman, Jo Bunsell, The Third Eye Fatimah Tobing Rony, 1996 Charting the intersection of technology and ideology cultural production and social science Fatimah Tobing Rony explores early twentieth century representations of non Western indigenous peoples in films ranging from the documentary to the spectacular to the scientific Turning the gaze of the ethnographic camera back onto itself bringing the perspective of a third eye to bear on the invention of the primitive other Rony reveals the collaboration of anthropology and popular culture in Western constructions of race gender nation and empire Her work demonstrates the significance of these constructions and more generally of ethnographic cinema for understanding issues of identity In films as seemingly dissimilar as Nanook of the North King Kong and research footage of West Africans from an 1895 Paris ethnographic exposition Rony exposes a shared fascination with and anxiety over race She shows how photographic realism contributed to popular and scientific notions of evolution race and civilization and how in turn anthropology understood and critiqued its own use of photographic technology Looking beyond negative Western images of the Other Rony considers performance strategies that disrupt these images for example the use of open resistance recontextualization and parody in the films of Katherine Dunham and Zora Neale Hurston or the performances of Josephine Baker She also draws on the work of contemporary artists such as Lorna Simpson and Victor Masayeva Jr and writers such as Frantz Fanon and James Baldwin who unveil the language of racialization in ethnographic cinema Elegantly written and richly illustrated innovative in theory and original in method The Third Eye is a remarkable interdisciplinary contribution to critical thought in film studies anthropology cultural studies art history postcolonial studies and women's studies
