Hallett Smith

Talking Forward Talking Back Critical:

Talking Forward, Talking Back Kevin Lee Cope, Rüdiger Ahrens, 2002 Critical theory is always retrospective when applied to works from earlier periods This text takes a new approach to the challenge of literary theory with respect to eighteenth century studies It looks at the way that literature of the period dealt with the question of the time of criticism

Practicing Critical Oral History Christine K. Lemley, 2017-09-08 Practicing Critical Oral History Connecting School and Community provides ways and words for educators to use critical oral history in their classroom and communities in order to put their students and the voices of people from marginalized communities at the center of their curriculum to enact change Clearly and concisely written this book offers a thought provoking overview of how to use stories from those who have been underrepresented by dominant systems to identify a critical topic engage with critical processes and enact critical transformative justice outcomes Critical oral history both writes and rights history so that participants both interviewers and narrators in critical oral history projects aim to contextualize stories and make the voices and perspectives of those who have been historically marginalized heard and listened to Supplemented throughout with sample activities lesson plan outlines tables and illustrative figures Practicing Critical Oral History Connecting School and Community is an essential resource for all those interested in integrating the techniques of critical oral history into an educational setting

Metaphors of Confinement Monika Fludernik, 2019-08-13 Metaphors of Confinement The Prison in Fact Fiction and Fantasy offers a historical survey of imaginings of the prison as expressed in carceral metaphors in a range of texts about imprisonment from Antiquity to the present as well as non penal situations described as confining or restrictive These imaginings coalesce into a carceral imaginary that determines the way we think about prisons just as social debates about punishment and criminals feed into the way carceral imaginary develops over time Examining not only English language prose fiction but also poetry and drama from the Middle Ages to postcolonial particularly African literature the book juxtaposes literary and non literary contexts and contrasts fictional and nonfictional representations of imprisonment and discussions about the prison as institution and experiential reality It comments on present day trends of punitivity and foregrounds the ethical dimensions of penal punishment The main argument concerns the continuity of carceral metaphors through the centuries despite historical developments that included major shifts in policy such as the invention of the penitentiary The study looks at selected carceral metaphors often from two complementary perspectives such as the home as prison or the prison as home or the factory as prison and the prison as factory The case studies present particularly relevant genres and texts that employ these metaphors often from a historical perspective that analyses development through different periods

New Contexts for Eighteenth-Century British Fiction Christopher D. Johnson, 2011-04-18 New Contexts for Eighteenth Century British Fiction is a collection of thirteen essays honoring Professor Jerry C Beasley who retired from the University of Delaware in 2005 The essays written by friends collaborators and former students reflect the scholarly interests that defined Professor Beasley's career and point to new directions of critical inquiry. The initial essays which discuss Tobias Smollett, Elizabeth Singer Rowe, and Samuel Richardson suggest new directions in biographical writing including the intriguing discourse of life writing explored by Paula Backscheider. Subsequent essays enrich understandings of eighteenth-century fiction by examining lesser-known works by Jane Barker, Eliza Haywood, and Charlotte Lennox. Many of the essays, especially those that focus on Smollett, use political pamphlets, material artifacts, and urban legends to place familiar novels in new contexts. The collection's final essay demonstrates the vital importance of bibliographic study.

Reason and Religion in Clarissa E. Derek Taylor, 2009. Departing from traditional Lockean readings of Clarissa, E. Derek Taylor offers a new interpretation informed by the writings of Locke's first critic, John Norris. Alluded to throughout Richardson's novel, Norris's philosophical and religious ideas provide the rhetorical grounding for Clarissa, while the arguments on behalf of women by early feminists like Mary Astell, an intellectual ally of Norris, supply the combination of progressive feminism and conservative theology that animate the text.

Annotated Chaucer bibliography Mark Allen, Stephanie Amsel, 2015-11-01. Author of The Canterbury Tales and foundation of the English literary tradition, Geoffrey Chaucer has been popular with readers, writers, and scholars for over 600 years. More than 4600 books, essays, poems, stories, recordings, and websites pertaining to Chaucer were published between 1997 and 2010, and this bibliography identifies each of them separately, providing publication information and a descriptive summary of contents. The bibliography also offers several useful discovery aids to enable users to locate individual items of interest, whether it be a study of the Wife of Bath's love life, a video about Chaucer's language, advice on how to teach a particular poem by Chaucer, or a murder mystery that features Chaucer as detective. Useful for scholars, teachers, and students alike, this volume is a must for academic libraries.

The Scriblerian and the Kit-Cats, 2004. Talking Back and Acting Out

Sandra Jackson, Ann Russo, 2002. Sixteen contributions by Jackson and Russo, both DePaul U and other feminist scholars, writers, and activists describe how they have resisted being defined and pigeonholed by the dominant culture. Drawing upon her own life experience, each writer shows how women can create their own alternative constructions of identities and realities. The volume does not contain an index.
