language-learning data Amanda Edmonds, Pascale Leclercq, Aarnes Gudmestad, 2020-09-28 This book provides a forum for methodological discussions emanating from researchers engaged in studying how individuals acquire an additional language. Whereas publications in the field of second language acquisition generally report on empirical studies with relatively little space dedicated to questions of method, the current book gave authors the opportunity to more fully develop a discussion piece around a methodological issue in connection with the interpretation of language learning data. The result is a set of seven thought-provoking contributions from researchers with diverse interests. Three main topics are addressed in these chapters: the role of native speaker norms in second language analyses; the impact of epistemological stance on experimental design and/or data interpretation; and the challenges of transcription and annotation of language learning data with a focus on data ambiguity. Authors expand on these crucial issues, reflect on best practices, and provide in many instances concrete examples of the impact they have on data interpretation.

Talking of Silence Carrie M. H. Herbert, 1989 This book outlines a research project concerned with the sexual harassment of thirteen girls and the way in which a group of Inner London girls disclosed their experiences of sexual violence as children.

English Teaching Forum, 2003 Doing Action Research in English Language Teaching Anne Burns, 2009-12-04 This hands-on practical guide for ESL/EFL teachers and teacher educators outlines for those who are new to doing action research what it is and how it works. Straightforward and reader-friendly, it introduces the concepts and offers a step-by-step guide to going through an action research process, including illustrations drawn widely from international contexts. Each chapter includes a variety of pedagogical activities. Bringing the how-to and the what-together, this is the perfect text for BATESOL and MATESOL courses in which action research is the focus or a required component.
