

Shakespeare's Sonnets

- Shakespeare's sonnets were published in 1609, but most of them were written much earlier, probably in the 1590s, when Sidney's Astrophel and Stella established the vogue of the Elizabethan sonnet cycle. There are 154 sonnets in all, and together they suggest a "story," although the exact details of that "story" are elusive and mysterious. The first 126 sonnets are addressed mainly to a young man of great beauty and promise. The speaker expresses his affection and admiration for the young man, urges him to marry and perpetuate his virtues through children, and warns him about the destructive power of time, age, and moral weakness. Sonnets 78–86 of this group are concerned with a rival poet who has also addressed poems to the young man. Sonnets 127–152 are addressed to a lady with dark hair, eyes, and complexion. Both the speaker and the young man seem to be involved with her romantically.

There has always been much speculation about the biographical meaning of the "story" of Shakespeare's sonnets, but no one has ever produced a convincing theory connecting it with the facts of Shakespeare's life. The situations and relationships suggested in the sonnets are best understood as the fictional means through which Shakespeare explores basic questions about time and death, about beauty and moral integrity, about love, and about poetry itself.
