When Brains Dream Antonio Zadra, Robert Stickgold, 2021-01-12 A comprehensive eye opening exploration of what dreams are where they come from what they mean and why we have them. Questions on the origins and meaning of dreams are as old as humankind and as confounding and exciting today as when nineteenth century scientists first attempted to unravel them. Why do we dream? Do dreams hold psychological meaning or are they merely the reflection of random brain activity? What purpose do dreams serve? When Brains Dream addresses these core questions about dreams while illuminating the most up to date science in the field. Written by two world renowned sleep and dream researchers it debunks common myths that we only dream in REM sleep for example while acknowledging the mysteries that persist around both the science and experience of dreaming. Antonio Zadra and Robert Stickgold bring together state of the art neuroscientific ideas and findings to propose a new and innovative model of dream function called NEXUP Network Exploration to Understand Possibilities. By detailing this model's workings they help readers understand key features of several types of dreams from prophetic dreams to nightmares and lucid dreams. When Brains Dream reveals recent discoveries about the sleeping brain and the many ways in which dreams are psychologically and neurologically meaningful experiences. It explores a host of dream related disorders and explains how dreams can facilitate creativity and be a source of personal insight. Making an eloquent and engaging case for why the human brain needs to dream. When Brains Dream offers compelling answers to age old questions about the mysteries of sleep.

American Mind Literature Philosophy and the Anticipation of Cognitive Science language English abstract Dreams can be seen as subjective phenomena that only become realities if we can remember their contents after waking But how many of you remember your dreams and why do we dream at all The first question can easily be answered About 80% according to the statistics Jouvett 27 The answer to the second question however has puzzled humankind for a long time and even today scientists do not agree on one explicit theory In my term paper I will present various answers to the question of dreaming given by different dream analysts At first I will give a short historical overview on the role of dreams and how they have been seen in different societies Whereas the Ancient Egypt and the bible attributed a supernatural element to dreams Aristotle introduced the psychological character of dreams The main work of my paper will be the analysis of three major perspectives on dream theories The psychoanalytical the biological and the cognitive perspective Freud argued that dreams express unconscious desires and underlying wishes which he termed the latent content In contrast Hobson McCarley believe that dreams are created because of random activity in the brain during a certain state of sleep REM More recent studies done by Stickgold try to be more precise He argues that the brain is active during sleep because it tries to identify new connections to learn new things from old memory In a final step I will apply the different dream theories on a dream from the movie Requiem for a Dream USA 2000 in order to outline and compare their main features and to show what a dream can tell us about the personality and the life of the dreamer according to the three perspectives
