Cholbi,2015-12-02 Death comes for us all eventually Philosophers have long been perplexed by how we ought to feel about death Many people fear death and believe that death is bad for the person who dies But is death bad for us and if so how is its badness best explained If we do not survive death if death is simply a state of nothingness how can death be bad for us If death is bad for us do we have good reason to live as long as possible Would an immortal life really be a good human life or would even an immortal life eventually become tedious and make us long for mortality This volume presents fourteen philosophical essays that examine our attitudes toward mortality and immortality The topics addressed have become more urgent as scientists attempt to extend the human lifespan perhaps even indefinitely This book invites the reader to critically appraise his or her own attitudes toward death and immortality by exploring the ethical metaphysical and psychological complexities associated with these issues

The Catechism Explained Francis Spirago,1899 This Catechism is divided into three parts The first part treats of faith the second of morals the third of the means of grace In the first part Our Lord appears in His character of Teacher in the second in His character of King and in the third in His character of High Priest And since this Catechism proposes as its primary object to answer the question for what purpose are we here upon earth thereby emphasizing and giving prominence to man s high calling and destiny it is especially suited to the present day when the pursuit of material interests self indulgence and pleasure engrosses the attention of so many This Catechism is in fact nothing more nor less than an abstract of Our Lord s teaching and may be called a guide book for the Christian on the road to heaven Preface
