Mechanisms of Perceptual Categorization as Precursors to Speech Perception Einat Liebenthal,Lynne E. Bernstein,2017-05-03 Perceptual categorization is fundamental to the brain s remarkable ability to process large amounts of sensory information and efficiently recognize objects including speech Perceptual categorization is the neural bridge between lower level sensory and higher level language processing A long line of research on the physical properties of the speech signal as determined by the anatomy and physiology of the speech production apparatus has led to descriptions of the acoustic information that is used in speech recognition e g stop consonants place and manner of articulation voice onset time aspiration Recent research has also considered what visual cues are relevant to visual speech recognition i e the visual counter parts used in lipreading or audiovisual speech perception Much of the theoretical work on speech perception was done in the twentieth century without the benefit of neuroimaging technologies and models of neural representation Recent progress in understanding the functional organization of sensory and association cortices based on advances in neuroimaging presents the possibility of achieving a comprehensive and far reaching account of perception in the service of language At the level of cell assemblies research in animals and humans suggests that neurons in the temporal cortex are important for encoding biological categories On the cellular level different classes of neurons interneurons and pyramidal neurons have been suggested to play differential roles in the neural computations underlying auditory and visual categorization The moment is ripe for a research topic focused on neural mechanisms mediating the emergence of speech representations including auditory visual and even somatosensory based forms Important progress can be achieved by juxtaposing within the same research topic the knowledge that currently exists the identified lacunae and the theories that can support future investigations This research topic provides a snapshot and platform for discussion of current understanding of neural mechanisms underlying the formation of perceptual categories and their relationship to language from a multidisciplinary and multisensory perspective It includes contributions reviews original research methodological developments pertaining to the neural substrates dynamics and mechanisms underlying perceptual categorization and their interaction with neural processes governing speech perception Functional Phonology Paul P. G. Boersma,1998 Handbook of Research on Advanced Hybrid Intelligent Techniques and Applications Bhattacharyya, Siddhartha,Banerjee, Pinaki,Majumdar, Dipankar,Dutta, Paramartha,2015-11-03 Conventional computational methods and even the latest soft computing paradigms often fall short in their ability to offer solutions to many real world problems due to uncertainty imprecision and circumstantial data Hybrid intelligent computing is a paradigm that addresses these issues to a considerable extent The Handbook of Research on Advanced Hybrid Intelligent Techniques and Applications highlights the latest research on various issues relating to the hybridization of artificial intelligence practical applications and best methods for implementation Focusing on key interdisciplinary computational intelligence research dealing with soft computing techniques pattern mining data analysis and computer vision this book is relevant to the research needs of academics IT specialists and graduate level students Prosodic Aspects of Information Structure in Discourse Monique Elisabeth van Donzel,1999 Proefschrift Universiteit van Amsterdam Auditory Brainstem Evoked Potentials Ananthanarayan Krishnan,2021-10-06 Auditory Brainstem Evoked Potentials Clinical and Research Applications provides a solid foundation of the theoretical principles of auditory evoked potentials This understanding is important for both the development of optimal clinical test strategies and interpretation of test results Developed for graduate level audiology students this comprehensive text aims to build a fundamental understanding of auditory evoked brainstem responses ABR and their relationship to normal and impaired auditory function as well as its various audiologic and neurotologic applications In addition to covering the classical onset ABR the book provides a thorough review of sustained brainstem responses elicited by complex sounds including auditory steady state response ASSR envelope following response EFR and frequency following response FFR and the growing clinical and research applications of these responses By exploring why certain stimulus manipulations are required to answer specific clinical questions the author provides the resources needed for students and clinicians to make reasoned decisions about the optimal protocol to use in a given situation Key Features A full chapter devoted to laboratory exercises Numerous illustrations to help explain key concepts Description of neural bases underlying amplitude and latency changes Troubleshooting techniques End of chapter summaries Modal Particles in Dutch Directives Roel Vismans,1994 Linguistics ,1994 Status Report on Speech Research ,1994 Relationship of Language and Music, Ten Years After: Neural Organization, Cross-domain Transfer and Evolutionary Origins Caicai Zhang,Chao-Yang Lee,William Shiyuan WANG,Mary Miu Yee Waye,2022-09-03 ICSLP 96 ,1996 The relationship between music and language Lutz Jäncke, Traditionally music and language have been treated as different psychological faculties This duality is reflected in older theories about the lateralization of speech and music in that speech functions were thought to be localized on the left and music functions on the right hemisphere But with the advent of modern brain imaging techniques and the improvement of neurophysiological measures to investigate brain functions an entirely new view on the neural and psychological underpinnings of music and speech has evolved The main point of convergence in the findings of these new studies is that music and speech functions have many aspects in common and that several neural modules are similarly involved in speech and music There is also emerging evidence that speech functions can benefit from music functions and vice versa This new research field has accumulated a lot of new information and it is therefore timely to bring together the work of those researchers who have been most visible productive and inspiring in this field and to ask them to present their new work or provide a summary of their laboratory s work
