Wine Hugh Johnson,1975 Wine Hugh Johnson,2005 An intimate understanding of the world of wine filtered through the vast knowledge and experience of the recognised world expert this book addresses every aspect of the world of wine

The Life and Wines of Hugh Johnson Hugh Johnson,2022-06-20 Veteran wine books are by modern standards short on facts Decanter Magazine This is an inspirational book well worth your time Eric Asimov on Instagram If you want to learn about wine switch off your phone buy these two books and enjoy them with a nice glass of something The Critic This is a don't miss book for people who plan their travels around vineyards Washington Post This is one of the best books on wine ever written Sommelier India In this unique approach to understanding wine Hugh Johnson the world's best loved wine author weaves the story of his own epic wine journey with an embracing view of everything he has discovered along the way Almost without realizing it the reader is drawn into a fascinating world with each page turned knowledge is gained and wine wisdom absorbed Hugh takes us from the teetering ledges of the Mosel and majestic châteaux of the M. doc to the sylvan slopes of Windsor Great Park with a spring in his step and a tasting glass at the ready No one writes so infectiously on every aspect of wine whether human or cultural technical or historical This book is peppered with anecdotes and personal recollections infused with the sheer delight Hugh finds in his subject It is a book with a story to tell and a mastery of wine to impart Previously published as Wine A Life Uncorked 2005 now updated with new chapters Imperial Wine Jennifer Regan-Lefebvre,2024-04-23 A fascinating and approachable deep dive into the colonial roots of the global wine industry Imperial Wine is a bold rigorous history of Britain's surprising role in creating the wine industries of Australia South Africa and New Zealand Here historian Jennifer Regan Lefebvre bridges the genres of global commodity history and imperial history presenting provocative new research in an accessible narrative This is the first book to argue that today's global wine industry exists as a result of settler colonialism and that imperialism was central not incidental to viticulture in the British colonies Wineries were established almost immediately after the colonization of South Africa Australia and New Zealand as part of a civilizing mission tidy vines heavy with fruit were symbolic of Britain's subordination of foreign lands Economically and culturally nineteenth century settler winemakers saw the British market as paramount However British drinkers were apathetic towards what they pejoratively called colonial wine The tables only began to turn after the First World War when colonial wines were marketed as cheap and patriotic and started to find their niche among middle and working class British drinkers This trend combined with social and cultural shifts after the Second World War laid the foundation for the New World revolution in the 1980s making Britain into a confirmed country of wine drinkers and a massive market for New World wines These New World producers may have only received critical acclaim in the late twentieth century but Imperial Wine shows that they had spent centuries wooing and indeed manufacturing a British market for inexpensive colonial wines This book is sure to satisfy any curious reader who savors the complex stories behind this commodity chain Finding Meaning in Wine Michael Sinowitz,2023-08-01 This book examines controversies in American wine culture and how those controversies intersect with and illuminate current academic and cultural debates about the environment and about interpretation With a specific focus on the United States of America the methods that we use to discuss literature and other art are applied to wine making and wine culture The book explores the debates about how to evaluate wine and the problems inherent in numerical scoring as well as evaluative tasting notes whether winemakers can be artists the discourse in wine culture involving natural wine and biodynamic farming as well as how people judge what makes a wine great These interpretative commitments illuminate an underlying metaphysics and allegiance to a culture of reason or feeling The discussions engage with a broad range of writers and thinkers such as Roland Barthes Susan Sontag Louis Menand Michael Pollan Greg Garrard John Guillory Amitov Ghosh Pierre Bourdieu and Barbara Herrnstein Smith The book draws upon not only a number of texts produced by wine critics wine writers literary critics and theorists but also extensive interviews with wine writers and multiple California winemakers These interviews contribute to a unique reflection on wine and meaning This book will be of great interest to readers looking to learn more about wine from cultural literary and philosophical perspectives
